

NEW BUILDING TO BE ERECTED

3-Story Brick Structure To Be Built in Highlands

The "old rock building on the corner," for nearly half a century one of the familiar landmarks in Highlands, is being torn down preparatory to the erection by W. W. Edwards of a three-story brick structure to be used as a hotel in connection with the Central House.

The brick building was constructed 45 years or more ago by James Rideout, grandfather of Harold and J. E. Rideout, and was used as a store for many years. More recently it has been used as a shooting gallery and pool room.

Mr. Edwards said some of the stone in the old building would be used in the foundation of the new structure. So, it would seem, "the old rock building on the corner," although in a different form and with another name, "the new brick building on the corner," will still serve as a Highlands landmark for many years to come.

ed out that there are many individuals in this county in need of assistance who are not eligible for government relief. It is also explained that national Red Cross funds are used for relief in disasters and also in first aid and other health educational work in which the government takes no part.

The need of Red Cross contributions, it is declared, is equally as great, if not greater, this year than in previous years.

both young men as his assailants and robbers.

A watertight case against them, the young men, instead of taking chances with a jury, pled guilty and put themselves at the court's mercy. And thus ended the criminal careers of two bad boys who tried to emulate Indiana's notorious hold-up desperadoes.

Season Opens

Ruffed Grouse Again Legal Prey of Hunters

After having been on the protected list for several years, ruffed grouse—said to be the gamest fowl in the mountains—became legal prey for hunters Tuesday. Officials of the state department of conservation recently declared an open season on the bird from November 20 to December 10 in all the western counties.

The bag limit is four a day or 12 for the season, but it will take a hunter of unusual skill and dogs of better than average ability to come anywhere near getting the limit.

J. A. Bradshaw, state game warden, told a story while on a visit here several weeks ago illustrating the difficulty of shooting ruffed grouse.

"I remember a few years ago," he said, "a party of skilled hunters reported that they had sighted nearly 100 grouse on a hunt and had only bagged one, so swift was their flight."

The ruffed grouse is commonly called the "mountain pheasant" and because of this Mr. Bradshaw warned that there will be no open season this year for ring-neck and other varieties of the true pheasant. The grouse, he pointed out, is not a real pheasant as it does not have a long tail. He is the bird that drums rhythmically on logs. The species has multiplied rapidly under a protected season in recent years.

Farm Census

Supervisor and Enumerators To Be Named

A supervisor to have charge of the 1935 farm census in the tenth and eleventh congressional districts will shortly be appointed upon recommendation of Senator Robert R. Reynolds and Representatives A. L. Bulwinkle and Zebulon Weaver, it was learned here this week.

The census, which is to be taken in compliance with an act of congress, will not begin until after January 1, it was pointed out.

Enumerators will be appointed in each county, the number to be in proportion to the number of farms in the county. Under the rules and regulations of the bureau of the census and under the law, supervisors and enumerators will not be chosen from the cities and towns but will be chosen from the rural districts. Every effort will be made to appoint as enumerators farmers, farmers' wives, sons and daughters, and a census test as to qualifications, character, standing in the community, organization and administrative ability and tact in building and efficient and economical organization will be required before the appointment is made, it was revealed.

The enumerators will be employed for 15 to 20 days and will be paid on a piece basis. An energetic enumerator will be able to earn from four to five dollars a day, which will be subject to the government's five per cent reduction on salaries, it was explained. No enumerators are to be appointed until after the supervisor is appointed, and no one will be named who is unable to pass the census test.

Several Macon county men already have applied for the position of supervisor of the farm census in Macon county.

2 Homes, Barn and Crib Destroyed by Fire

Fire destroyed two homes, a barn and a crib in the Cullasaja section during the past week.

Bill Bryson's barn and crib on Bryson Branch were burned Friday afternoon. Cause of the fire, which started in the loft of the barn, was not determined. Efforts to put out the fire were unavailing and it was with considerable difficulty that cattle were driven from the structure. Most of Mr. Bryson's winter supply of hay, feed and corn was destroyed. He had just finished shelling about a hundred bushels of corn.

Alfred Holland and family returned from church Sunday to find that their home on Nickajack creek had burned to the ground. The fire was believed to have started from a defective flue.

Sunday afternoon Jim McCall's home on Corundm Hill was destroyed by fire while the family was away from home. Mr. McCall said there had not been a fire laid in the house since Saturday. He was at a loss to explain the origin of the fire unless it caught from the sparks of a forest fire about three-quarters of a mile distant.
