THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

VACCINES—AND THE RELIABLE FAMILY DOCTOR

There can be no doubt of the value of certain vaccines in the prevention and treatment of epidemic disease. By the intelligent use of this method, much suffering can be avoided, and many conditions alleviated. Medical science has practically abolished typhoid fever, malaria, small-pox, yellow fever, and other infectious diseases—and has shorn diphtheria, scarlet fever, tetanus, hydrophobia and other fatal maladies of much of their terrors.

In an epidemic of influenza, I once gave prophylactic vaccines to twenty-five patients. Twenty-three of them passed through the scourge without contracting disease, although several of them lived in infected families. The other two fared not so well; one of them had the "flu" when he took the first injection, the other, a tubercular, also well along with the disease, died of broncho-pneumonia in spite of the efforts of myself and an able consultant.

Since then I have given immunizing vaccines to many people and have found the precaution most satisfactory for the patients and myself.

If your occupation exposes you to any epidemic disease, I would advise you strongly to permit your physician to immunize you by giving you appropriate vaccination, using the product of a reliable maker of such things. Like every other good thing, vaccine has been capitalized by the most brazen quacks; so be on your guard. It is usually safe to conclude that medical advisers, who "guarantee results," are imposters, who are trying to get your money for nothing. I advise that you exercise good judgment and trust your reliable family doctor.

Even doctors can not always tell. Dr. Dennis L. Black, 54, of Boston was found in perfect physical condition when examined by another physician as a matter of routine recently. Boasting of his soundness to his secretary, he pounded himself vigorously on the chest and dropped dead.
