

HEARD BY CROWD OF 400

compares North Carolina's record With Kansas' Under Landon

A crowd of 400 persons gathered at the courthouse last Thursday despite a heavy rain, to hear Clyde R. Hoey, Democratic nominee for Governor of North Carolina, deliver a political address in which he discussed both state and national issues.

W. A. Rogers, county Democratic chairman, presided at the meeting and George B. Patton, of Franklin, introduced the speaker.

Reviews State's Record

Hoey reviewed the progress in this state under Democratic administrations for the past years, and compared achievements in North Carolina during the years with the record of other states, home state of Alf M. Landon, Republican candidate for president.

Pointing out the fact that during the session not a single North Carolina school was closed for lack of funds, and that no teacher went unpaid by the state, Mr. Hoey declared that in Kansas 458 schools were closed and 7,000 teachers were unpaid during the depression.

He also stated that North Carolina had her debts $24,000,000 during the depression, while Kansas' was increased $3,000,000. Thirty-six years ago North Carolina ranked 23rd among the states in agriculture, now it is third only to Texas and California; 36 years ago Massachusetts led in cotton production, now North Carolina leads; are first, or near first, in several other industries. Is that any wonder to cast aside a Democratic administration?" the speaker concluded.

Mr. Hoey promised to provide funds to secure old age pensions and use his influence to procure free textbooks for schools if he is elected governor. He explained the length the advantages the Ridge Parkway will bring to the section and he called it "one of the best things that ever happened to North Carolina." But he added that it "didn't just happen, President Roosevelt and the New Deal brought it to us."

Praises Roosevelt
Mr. Hoey praised President Roosevelt for "the wisdom of his financial policy and his action in bringing the country off the gold standard."

Asserting that this country has more gold than all of the rest of the world combined, he said the Republican arguments against devaluation had "been knocked into a cocked hat" by other nations which had joined England and France in abandoning the gold standard.

"Those who have been so disturbed about our national credit should realize that there never has been a time when the United States could borrow money at a lower rate of interest and when its bonds commanded a better price in the financial markets," he said.

"Gold always seeks the place of greatest security. There is more gold in America than all the balance of the world combined and, therefore, gold has come to this country because it has the most stable and secure government and because the financial structure of this nation is a virtual Gibraltar of strength."

• This should be welcome news indeed to the thousands and thousands of residents in rural and country homes, where the only light after nightfall is the weak, sickly, yellow light from an old-fashioned kerosene lamp. Think of it — modern, white, city light — simple, safe and most economical. What joy in reading, sewing, working, studying, and playing now in solid comfort — in perfect safety — and the danger from eye-strain greatly reduced.
