LYLE-CROWLEY

The following announcement is taken from the January 3 issue of The Atlanta Constitution:

Mr. and Mrs. S. B. Love announce the marriage of their daughter, Dorothy Lyle, to Andrew Young Crowley, Thursday December 31, 1936, at Conyers, Ga. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. B. Marston.

The bride, a beautiful brunet, wore a becoming costume of green metal cloth finished with green and peach colored velvet flowers at the neckline. Her hat was a becoming off-the-face model featuring a short face veil. Her shoulder bouquet was of sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. A handsome coat of brown lapin and brown accessories, completed her costume.

Mrs. Crowley is the granddaughter of Mrs. S. H. Lyle of Franklin and the late Dr. S. H. Lyle, and a daughter of the late J. B. Lyle, former editor and manager of The Franklin Press.

The bride majored in art at the Washington Seminary, after having received her education in Florida. She is at present a student of the Federal Art of Minnesota. She is quite talented in art and music.

Mr. Crowley is the elder son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Y. Crowley, of Athens, Ga., a family distinguished in social and civic affairs. His maternal grandfather, the late W. A. Fowler, was prominently identified in textile manufacturing. Mr. Crowley is a graduate of the Georgia School of Technology and holds a very responsible position with the Georgia Kincaid Mills in Griffin, Ga. He holds a commission as first lieutenant in the R. O. T. C. of the United States Army.

After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Crowley will reside in Griffin, Ga.

Walnut Trees Are Dual Source of Cash Income

Setting out black walnut seedlings, or planting the nuts in fertile spots about over the farm is a profitable investment, according to R. H. Page, Jr., assistant extension forester at State college.

There is always a strong demand for black walnut timber, he said, and the nuts are valuable for home use and for sale. Confectioners pay good prices for these nuts.

The supply of black walnut timber in the State is almost exhausted, Page continued, and farmers who renew the supply should be able to sell it at a high price.

Walnuts grow best in deep, rich, well-drained soil. Ditch and stream banks, fence and field corners, farm yards, and the borders of lanes and roadways are good places to raise these trees, he stated.

It costs very little to plant the nuts or set out the seedlings, he pointed out, and the growing trees require but little attention.

He recommends the fall or early spring as the best time to plant the nuts. Drop two nuts several inches apart, he said, and cover with about two inches of topsoil, firmly packed. Scalp the ground clean of grass and weeds for a space a foot or two around the hole.

Where trees are to be grown in single rows, as along a lane or stream, the trees may be spaced 25 feet apart. But where they are to be grown in groups, there should be 35 to 40 feet between the trees.

Seedlings may be purchased for about $10 a thousand, Page added. Further information about the seedlings may be obtained from county farm agents over the state.
