Agitators Will Find no Comfort Here

IN "The French Revolution" Carlyle states that we are not always governed by those most able to govern, but by those most able to get elected.

The dour old Scotsman was most always right, and in that statement he smacked home a truth that is as potent today as it was at the time it was written.

Some of our so-called statesmen have been claiming that a state of insurrection exists because of the widespread wave of strikes, and that we are faced with a choice between communism and fascism.

These professional viewers with alarm are wrong and they know they are wrong.

There can be neither communism nor fascism in the United States so long as the south and the great middle west are filled with the native-born whose family roots are sunk deep in the soil.

The right to work when work can be had, the right to join or not to join any organization, the right to speak and to print honest opinions—these are too deeply imbedded in the hearts of our people to be uprooted by foreign-born agitators. And so long as the brains of the men of the south and the great valleys of the Mississippi and the Ohio dominate the government of the United States there will be no dictators and no fascism or communism.

The governor of North Carolina has already given fair warning to those who are working to stir up strife within the state. He has made it plain that there will be no toleration for armed pickets or for minorities who try to intimidate men who are satisfied with their jobs and want to work. His idea seems to be that the right to strike is inalienable when conditions become unsatisfactory, but that the right of a man to work without hindrance is also inalienable, and that he will see that the man is protected in that right.

The governor has stated that he will tolerate no violence.

And he meant what he said.

There will be no chance in our state for a small minority, who have been stirred up by outside agitators, to tie up our textile industries, as they have tried to tie up the steel plants in the north.

The communistic organizers who have had the sympathy and cooperation of officialdom in some states will find no comfort here.

See the Pools at Arrowood

MOST of our folks are fishermen part of the time, some are fishermen all the time—but all of them are sportsmen, and this is just a suggestion to all who have not been there that a trip to Arrowood to see the trout-rearing pools is very much worth while.

Paul H. Gerard, supervisor of the Nantahala national forest, states that the pools are now being operated to full capacity. The small fish received are held and fed until they are large enough to be placed in the streams, usually at about six inches. This work is being carried on by the forest service in cooperation with the U. S. bureau of fisheries and the state department of conservation and development.

Something like 100,000 trout are now in the pools and will be placed in the streams this fall.

The forest service asks the cooperation of the public in abiding by the fishing laws and reporting any violations to the state or federal wardens.

But, by all means, go out to Arrowood and see for yourself what it is all about.

Home Made Ice Cream Makes Any Day a Holiday

SAFE AND SANE, delightful and healthfully nourishing is a party for the children when you serve home made ice cream. Sunday evening, on sister's birthday, or just any afternoon, a home made ice cream party is very much in order. Here is an old reliable recipe for:

CHOCOLATE ICE CREAM

- |                         |  |
|-------------------------|--|
| 1 cup sugar             | 2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted) |
| 1 tablespoon cornstarch | 2 teaspoons vanilla extract              |
| 1/4 teaspoon salt       | 1 cup whipping cream (whipped)           |
| 2 cups milk (scalded)   |  |
| 3 eggs (beaten)         |  |

Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add scalded milk slowly, stirring well, and place in saucepan or double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat, add beaten eggs, then cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Blend in melted chocolate. Cool. Then add vanilla extract and fold in whipped cream. Place in freezing container of ice cream freezer.

Cover and surround with 3 parts chipped ice and 1 part rock salt (by volume). Freeze ice cream until turning becomes difficult (for about 5 to 15 minutes). Then carefully remove cover, lift out dasher and pack down ice cream with a spoon. Replace cover and replenish salt and ice mixture. Let stand at least 1 hour before serving.

NOTES FROM THE HIGHLANDS MUSEUM

The children's nature club met Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with three new members. Karl Roebbling brought the large snail, Polygyra Andrewsae, which performed for the club. Mrs. Wheeler told a story about this species and about the cannibal snails. Each child will bring in one or more species for the snail farm at the next meeting. Kenyon Zahner showed the deserted nest of the field sparrow, while Lawton Daugherty brought the Dobson fly. The museum director gave the children a demonstration of the use of the cyanide bottle in preparing insects for preservation. Officers will be elected, as the children get somewhat acquainted. Members of the club are Martha Cobb, Richard Thompson, Billy Bryson, Ann Anderson, Billy Morrison, Lawton Daugherty, Karl Roebbling, Edith Wheeler, Kenyon Zohner, Ronald Wideman, Mary Dava Anderson, and George Bessel, II.

The boys' and girls' Nature club met at 4 p. m. Tuesday. Enthusiasm ran high as each boy and girl selected the three major nature interests, and then settled upon his or her special interest or project for the summer. All the members will work casually upon their several interests, but will be responsible for one specific project.

The choices were Bill Feaster, lizards and salamanders; June Thompson, insects; O. Earl Young, flowers; Mozelle Bryson, ferns; Nancy Morrison, butterflies; Sam Cooper, snakes; Angela Anderson, shells (snails); Phillip Fullwood fish; Edward Daugherty, flowers; Douglas Johnson, shells; Jan Chambers, butterflies, Susan Daugherty, minerals; Loyer Zahner, flowers; Billy Crosby, minerals.

Since Henry Stevenson, our ornithological specialist, is here for the summer, and since many of the boys and girls checked birds as one of the three choices, much time will be given to birds, of which no chairman has been yet selected. All the boys are cooperating under the chairmanship of Billy Crosby to make personal collections for each child of the various typical woods of the Highlands region. Each week the regular meeting will be Monday and Thursday at 4 p. m.

Employers subject to the North Carolina unemployment act will be required to make their payroll reports on slips of paper, similar to those used in their reports on old age benefits to the federal government, in the future, instead of the list, or sheet, form used by the state commission for the last quarter. The North Carolina commission started the list, or sheet, form of reporting, but will be required to use the slip form. These reports are due quarterly and contain the names, social security account numbers, weekly wage and quarterly payments of all included employees.
