

DEAN SISK, 61, PASSES SUNDAY

 chairman of the Macon county Red Cross for several years.
 He always took a deep interest in the promotion and growth of his town. He was a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, Knights of Pythias, and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

In early boyhood he joined the Episcopal church and served as superintendent of the Sunday school for years.

Mr. Sisk is survived by his widow, the former Miss Emma Guy, one daughter, Mrs. A. E. Gouge, of Bakersville, one son, R. Van Sisk, of Charlotte, one grandson, and one nephew, Ross Zachary, of Concord.

Funeral services were held at St. Agnes' Episcopal church Monday morning at 11 o'clock. The Rev. Frank Bloxham, rector of the Franklin and Highlands Episcopal churches, assisted by Rev. C. C. Herbert, Jr., pastor of the Franklin Methodist church, were in charge of the final rites. Interment was in the Franklin cemetery.

Pallbearers were: George B. Patton, Guy L. Houk, R. S. Jones, J. S. Conley, J. Frank Ray, Henry W. Cabe, E. E. Sypher, all of Franklin, and S. W. Black, of Bryson City.

EXPECT CROWD ON LABOR DAY

 The Byrne Memorial Tower and Wayah Bald will be in the future a prominent show place of Western North Carolina and will, no doubt, attract a great deal of attention from visitors.

Labor Day Program

After the dedicatory exercises at Wayah Bald there will be a baseball game between the teams of CCC camps F-20 and F-23, beginning at 4 p. m.

At 7 p. m. there will be free street dancing on Main street with mountain music.

The entire program for the day is sponsored by the Franklin Chamber of Commerce and the personnel of the Nantahala national forest.

Box Supper and Cake Walk at Ellijay

There will be a box supper and cake walk Saturday night, September 4, at the Ellijay school house. Proceeds will be used for the benefit of the school. String music and buck dancing will be another feature of the evening. The public is cordially invited.

COURSES HERE FOR TEACHERS

this fall and winter is Ancient and Medieval history. So much new knowledge of ancient man has been recently discovered; so much new and attractive material knowledge of the regions inhabited by the earliest civilizations, has been made available by the researches and excavations of scholars like Breasted, Hammerton, Osborne, and Tyler; and so much light has been thrown upon the geography of these countries by writers like Durant and Ludwig, as to invest the entire subject with a new appeal and charm.

The plan of Dr. Parker is such as to make his classes attractive to listeners, as well as to students. He invites the attendance of all interested persons to his first class lecture at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the high school building. The college authorizes the enrollment of attendants who wish to take the lectures without credit at a fee of one-half the prescribed cost of the course when taken for college credit. No fee of any kind is required for attendance at the first meeting.

A Globe Trotter Discovers the Nantahalas

W. C. Dowdell, manager of Elliott Travel Tours, with headquarters in Talladega, Ala., with Mrs. Dowdell, has been engaged in making a "tour of discovery" in this section during the past week. With Trimont Inn in Franklin as a base, Mr. Dowdell has made a preliminary survey of the scenic attractions of the Nantahalas and Great Smokies with the view of including a tour of this region among the itineraries offered to parties by Elliott Tours.

Mr. Dowdell, who has conducted sightseeing trips to California and other sections of this country for a number of years, as well as to Europe, Mexico, Cuba and Canada, is another enthusiastic convert to the scenery of the Nantahalas.

"I had no idea that all this beauty existed," said Mr. Dowdell, after experiencing the thrill of ascent of Winding Stair and the sweeping view from Wayah Bald. "I have never seen any more beautiful scenery in all my travels," he commented. "The view from Wayah is even superior in grandeur, to my mind, than the view from Clingman's Dome in the Smokies."

Mr. Dowdell expects to bring a party to Western North Carolina next season.

Cherokee Indians To Stage Annual Fair

ASHEVILLE, Sept. 1.—The war-whoops of Cherokee warriors will soon echo through the Great Smoky Mountains, as 3,000 members of the eastern band of Cherokee Indians prepare to stage their annual fair, a featured event of the autumnal season in the highlands of Western North Carolina.

The "Fair," an event which mixes the primitive with modern Indian customs, is expected to attract a large attendance of white spectators this season. Tentative dates based on previous celebrations of the event would place the celebration in the first week in October, the probable dates being October 5-8.

While the exhibit buildings at the Cherokee school at Cherokee, N. C., will contain large displays of farm products from the Indian farms in the vogue of the regular county fair, with the added distinctive touch of handmade baskets, pottery, beadwork and metalcraft, done in the Indian manner, the events of the fair itself will date back in origin to early tribal history.

MONEY-MINDED

"Now, suppose," said the teacher, "a man working on the river bank suddenly fell in. He could not swim and would be in danger of drowning. Picture the scene. The man's sudden fall, the cry for help. His wife knows his peril and hearing his screams, rushes immediately to the bank. Why does she rush to the bank?"

Whereupon a boy exclaimed: "To draw his insurance money."

John Hance Injured By Accidental Shot

John Hance, 24, of Willets, was brought to Angel hospital from the Haywood County hospital Saturday.

Mr. Hance's left arm was almost severed, when a shotgun with which he was shooting crows was accidentally discharged. He lost so much blood that a blood transfusion was necessary. He was reported by hospital authorities to be doing very nicely.

Henry—"What would you do dear, if I should die?"
 Mrs. Peck—"I should go nearly crazy."
 Henry—"Would you marry again?"
 Mrs. Peck—"I said nearly crazy."
