HELP KIDNEYS
 To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste
 Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.
 Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.
 You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
 In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

FARMERS CO-OP HAS NEW UNIT

Brevard Warehouse 17th In W. N. C. Owned By Federation

BREVARD, Feb. 23.—Establishment of a Transylvania county unit of the Farmers Federation was observed here Saturday morning by the formal opening of the co-op's 17th warehouse.
 Brief addresses were made by James G. K. McClure, Federation president; Guy M. Sales, general manager; Vance A. Browning, educational director, and others. Music was supplied by the Federation string band.
 The organization's Brevard warehouse occupies the Allison building on East Main street. The Federation recently purchased this building, a two story frame structure with basement, and has thoroughly reconditioned it for use as a warehouse.
 Robert Caldwell, connected with the Waynesville warehouse of the Farmers Federation for the past two years, has been appointed manager of the Transylvania unit.
 The Brevard warehouse is the second opened by the Federation this year, a warehouse to serve the farmers of Cherokee and surrounding counties have been opened at Murphy, February 5.
 Addition of these units adds several hundred new members of stockholders to the fadners' cooperative and greatly increases its territory.
 Established by a handful of farmers in Fairview township, Buncombe county, in 1920, the Farmers Federation has grown steadily since then until it now has approximately 3,500 stockholders. Its territory has grown from a single township to 13 counties, in 11 of which it maintains warehouses. The volume of business has increased from $7,000 for the six months the Federation operated its first year to $1,143,559.67 for 1937.

The secret of this success is that the Federation has filled a definite need, enabling thousands of mountain farmers to improve their economic circumstances.
 The Federation maintains a marketing department through which the produce of mountain farmers is handled, a forest products department handling pulp and acid wood, shrubbery and other woodland products; publishes a monthly magazine, the Farmers Federation News, which goes to all stockholders; operates baby chick hatcheries at Spindale and Sylva, seven sweet potato curing houses in Rutherford, Polk and Burke counties, a cannery at Hendersonville and a number of other projects. At Fairview siding more than a score of young women are employed in manufacturing industrial uniforms. The Federation also sponsors a home knitting project which gives a source of income to many mountain women.
 Then too, the Federation has a religious department sponsoring the Lord's Acre movement which has enabled many rural churches to render a more effective service to their communities.
 The Federation is owned and controlled by farmers and is operated for their benefit. Although some of the preferred stock is held by business men not directly interested in farming, this stock has no voting privilege. Only the holders of common stock, practically all of them farmers, are permitted to vote in the management of business, and each common stockholder has one vote and only one regardless of the number of shares he holds. Experience has shown that this plan of organization is the most workable and equitable for a cooperative enterprise. This set-up keeps the organization democratic and prevents small group of stockholders from gaining control of the business and operating it for their own profit. Furthermore, the one-man, one-vote principle encourages the interest of small stockholders and keeps the organization vital.
 After operating expenses are met and dividends, limited to 6 per cent, are paid to stockholders, any remaining profits belong to the common stockholders. Such profits, when distributed, are prorated to patrons through a patronage dividend in proportion to the amount of business done with the Federation. Last year the Federation declared a patronage dividend of 2 1/2 per cent payable in stock shares.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. What are the primary factors to be considered in selecting hatching eggs?

A. The most important thing is to see that the eggs are produced by healthy birds, free from disease and parasites. Then select only those eggs that are true to type, of proper shape and size, and have good shell texture. The collection and storage of hatching eggs should be considered. Collections should be made several times a day and the eggs stored in a room that is fairly humid with a temperature of about 50 degrees. While in storage the eggs should be turned daily. If the eggs are carefully inspected and handled and the incubator properly operated the percent of hatch will more than pay for the extra trouble.

Q. How can I get rid of small worms in my tobacco plant beds?

A. These small worms often cause severe damage by uprooting the young plants, but they can be easily controlled with naphthalene flakes applied at the rate of one and one-half pounds to each 100 square yards of bed. One to three applications may be necessary and these should be made one week apart. If the treatment is made just before a strong wind, it should be repeated at once as the wind will blow the naphthalene gas out of the bed as fast as it is formed. Do not confuse the small worm with the adult black fleas and midges that swarm under the canvas. These insects cause no damage to the tobacco plants, but are often blamed for flea-beetle and small worm damage.

Q. When should the first spray be applied for control of scale insects in my peach orchard?

A. If the orchard is badly infested with scale the spray should be applied before the buds swell. An oil spray should be used and applied as directed by the manufacturer. If both scale and leaf curl are bad, the lime-sulphur or 4-4-50 Bordeaux mixture, with oil added, should be applied. Oils do not control leaf curl and when adding to lime-sulphur be sure that the particular oil used is recommended for this purpose by the manufacturer as only certain oils will mix with the lime solution. If the spray cannot be used before the buds swell, use the concentrated lime-sulphur.

An Interesting Old Church History

A rare old volume was brought to The Press office Monday by W. J. Morgan, which was examined with a great deal of interest.
 The volume is a history of the Baptist church in the United States and has been handed down in Mr. Morgan's family for three generations. The fly leaves have been torn out, but from dates found in the book, it was evidently published about 1816, and contains complete information about the organization of Baptist churches and associations from early colonial days to 1812.
