McClure Edits "Y" Handbook At Clemson

The Clemson college Y. M. C. A. handbook, a student publication of which Cadet G. W. McClure, of Franklin, is editor, has presented to Clemson's freshman class the following "Unwritten Laws at Clemson:"

"A Clemson man: Speaks to every cadet and every professor at every opportunity. Leaves the door open while in a barracks room where the occupants are out. Leaves a note when he borrows something from another cadet's room. Dresses neatly and is a gentleman at all times, in uniform and out. Pays his debts. Respects principles and regulations of the college. Realizes that someone is making a sacrifice to give him the opportunity to be at Clemson, and consequently makes use of his time to the best advantage by conscientious work, whether it be in study or in leisure."
