BRIDGE LUNCHEON AT "WOLF RIDGE"

Miss Marguerite Ravenel entertained the Wednesday Card Club with a bridge-luncheon at "Wolf Ridge" last week. Garden flowers in pastel shades centered the two tables where the luncheon was served. An artistic arrangement of purple rhododendron and pine boughs with their new candle-like growth banked the gray stone mantelpiece in the living room and vases of other wild flowers were used about the rooms.

The four-table game was played on the glass-enclosed east porch overlooking Horse Cove with gorgeous mountain views to the right and left. Miss Sara Gilder won.

Farmers are certainly making Macon Farms look prosperous—many acres are under cultivation. The small grain seems to be heading out well. Labor is very scarce, old and young are trying to do their bit. Many thousands of baby chicks that have been raised are now finding their way to the market. There is a great demand for good pigs.

Mrs. Bertha Crisp is on the sick list.

Ed Crisp has built a temporary house at the Burgin Place on Government land to shack in while he and his crew are getting out the timber on the Asher land.

Howard Keener, who works on the Fontana Dam, spent Sunday with his family.

Mrs. Sophrona Woods is visiting relatives in this section.

J. M. Keener's health is now very good for a man in his 93rd year.

Carmegie Gregory is now mail carrier of the Ellijay Franklin Rt. taking the place of Fred Norris.

The county nurse now plans to hold her Home Nursing and Care of the Sick Classes at Walnut Creek at the Home of Mrs. Cora Mashburn. She expects to begin about the middle of June.

Farm Women Prepared To Can Garden Surplus

Shortage of canning equipment and supplies should not prevent farm women from canning the Victory Garden surplus, says Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, of N. C. State College. She predicts that 12 to 15 million quarts of vegetables, meats and fruits will be canned in North Carolina this year.

Home Demonstration Club Women have reported 9,798 pressure canners in use in 1941, and a large number of these canners belong to County Federations or local clubs and are loaned to persons who do not own canners. Still others were bought early in 1942, and the Extension economist thinks there are at least 10,000 canners available now.

Canning records for a number of these pressure canners show an average of 1,000 cans per canner put up during the year. From these figures, it is estimated that 10 million cans of no-acid vegetables and meats can be processed, providing that the canners are kept in constant use according to Mrs. Morris.

The food conservationist said further that facilities for canning tomatoes and fruits are practically unlimited. A wash boiler, lard tin, or any covered vessel that is large enough to hold the filled jars can be used for a hot-water canner. Many glass jars that are not suitable for pressure canning may be used satisfactorily when this method is employed.

State College Hints For Farm Homemakers

The smart cook prepares vegetables for the table so they keep that fresh garden look and taste, along with the vitamins and minerals. To her it's a crime to overcook green vegetables or to pour down the sink the juice the good old-fashioned pot liquor.

Best way of all to cook green vegetables is to boil but make it speedy. And cook uncovered, only until tender, in as little water as possible. Season to taste with salt, pepper, and a little fat. For a "different" flavor, add chopped parsley, chives, or other herbs just before serving. Arrange attractively on a dish and serve while hot.

Farm People Affected Vitrally by Inflation

Farm people who study President Roosevelt's seven-point program to control the cost of living will recognize in it an attempt to prevent the disastrous results which followed the upward spiraling of prices during the first World War, says Dean I. O. Schaub, of State College. Every person who farmed from 1918 through the early 1920's will want to avoid inflation of prices, land values, and other things that led to mortgages which scores of farmers have never been able to lift.

President Roosevelt's program is designed to, not only control the cost of living, but to: (1) Prevent a few from getting rich at the expense of many; (2) make it possible for the poor and rich to share alike in the products available; (3) help prevent a serious depression after the war, such as paralyzed America following World War I; (4) maintain, insofar as possible, desirable social and economic conditions for our soldiers and sailors to return to after winning the fight for America's freedom; and (5) cause much of the war debt to be paid as we go.

Dean Schaub listed reasons why farmers dread inflation. It creates a feeling of prosperity which is not sound. It tends to get farmers into debt for such things as land and machinery, which they cannot pay for quickly.

Inflation gets farmers into the habit of living above their income. Inflation increases taxes and public debt. It reduces tendencies to save and discourages thrift; it establishes a price level higher than normal to which farmers adjust their level of living and outlook on life, which cannot be maintained.

Inflation means higher prices which make it hard for low income farm families to buy what they need. Finally, it makes dollars cheaper. Therefore, farmers have to mortgage for the future.
