Farm Agent Urges Planting Of Sorghum

"We are beginning to feel the effects of the war in the rationing of gas, tires and sugar. In all pribability rationing will be be extender to cover a majority of the items for which there is the greatest demand," warns Sam Mendenhall, farm agent. "It will be necessary for all of to learn to get along without many things that we have taken as a matter of course and for which we have given very little thought regarding their produc-

"The shortage of sugar will necessarily mean a shortage of jams, jellies and preserves. This condition can be relieved to a certain extent by the increased production of cane for sorghum. All families should arrange either as individuals or as groups to produce enough sorghum for home use, both as sorghum and for sweetening to take the place of sugar whenever possible."

There are many varieties of sorghum cane which can be grown and any one of which will give good results, according to Mr. Mendenhall. However the two varieties that have been found to give the best results are "Beat the Bee" and "Sugar Drip."

There is nothing we can do to increase the supply of the commodities that are short, but we can help the situation by producing those things that can be used as substitutes, says our farm agent.

Mr. Henderson says he is now pasturing several head of cattle, 20 sheep, and three or four hourses on this pasture wheras in 1935 it would have pushed it to keep two cows.
