To State Prison For Slaying Of Dalrymple; Other Cases Tried

Theodore Hedden, charged with the murder of Lonnie Dalrymple at Shady Nook tourist camp last June 29, was sentenced in Superfor court this week to a term of from seven to 12 years in the Fla. State's prison. -

Others tried for participating in the affray which resulted in the stabbing to death of young Dalrymple, 20-year-old son of Mrs. Samuel Dalrymple, of Hamilton, Wash., were John W. Lenoir, Bill Berry, Glover Reynolds and Robert Hawks, who were given suspended sentences of two years on good behavior and payment of costs. The case against Homer Hedden was nol-prossed.

Nelsons On Trial The case of the State against Hillard and Burrell Nelson for rape is being tried, but had not been completed Thursday morn.

Lawrence Taylor was given a suspended sentence of two years on good behavior and fined for assault with a deadly weapon upon Lawrence Sanders in the Prentiss neighborhood. Sanders, arraigned on the same charge, was given the same suspended sentence, without fine.

The grand jury found true bills against a number of offenders for operating motor vehicles while intoxicated. The failures to appear for trial in a number of these cases held over from the last term of court, with defendants forfeiting cash bonds to be paid into the school funds were considerable. Others charged with the same offense were given sentences on the county roads or suspended sentences and had their licenses revoked. Several larceny cases were also tried.

The Civilian Defense organization for Macon county has recently been completed, and a meeting of the entire personnel is being called for Friday, August 28, in the courthouse at 8 p.m., for the purpose of outlining the duties of each member and to make them familiar with the entire

The organization at present is as follows: Chairman and commander of Macon County Defense Council, G. L. Houk; executive, R. S. Jones; chief air-raid warden, John M. Archer, Jr.; chief of police, Homer Cochran; chief of fire department, Carl Tysinger; chief medical officer, Dr. Edgar Angel; mayor of Franklin, J. O. Harrison,

Letters are being sent to the following men of Franklin urgently requesting that they attend this meeting, as they have been selected as air-raid wardens to serve in the town of Franklin:

While it is generally conceded that there may never be an actual air raid in Macon county, it is entirely possible. If we wait to organize and make our preparation for an air raid until after we have had one, it will be too late. This organization is being perfected and plans made to take care of the situation ni the event of an actual raid.

Located as we are, and with the other western counties, it is entirely possible for aircraft to use the lights from the various towns as guides to the large hydro-electric plants and to the aluminum plant in Tennessee.

It is such a small job to prepare now for any possible emergency that it is the patriotic duty of every American citizen to lend his ro her support to this organization.

do this work, also,

While the recent building restriction order from Washington was intended to curtail large, unnecessary building, it is in no sense a stop-building order, and there are many things which homeowners and farmers may do, according to A. R. Higdon of the Franklin Hardware company.

"As I understand it," declared Mr. Higdon, "no limit has been put on the amount of money and other buildings in good repair. One may re-roof, paint, and maintenace. Thus any buildrepair sidewalks, foundations, sidehouse, insulate for fuel savings, cording to Mr. Higdon. In ad-

over worn ones throughout the and anything else needed to recondition a home. It is important to conserve what we have and thus all things necessary to the repair and maintenance of present homes and buildings are allowed under this order, and homeowners are urged to conserve their properties, In addition to repair work, a home may be remodeled or any new work may be done up to the amount of $500 each year, which figure must include both materials and labor, according to this lumberman. For less than this amount, he states, one may build a garage, install new kitchen cupboards, build a porch and many other things. In some localities small homes are being built within this limit. These may be add-each year. Since most homeowners have a great many things in mind which they want to do "some day," Mr. Higdon recommends that in the very beginning a complete outline of all these 'needs and wants' salvage materials of every kind be made. Then each year, as the various improvements are made, they will be done with a view to the complete job, and thus give the homeowner the most for his money. Under the order, also, homes which have been destroyed or damaged by fire, flood, etc., since December 31, 1941, may be restored or reconstructed. Low-cost defense housing in critical areas or housing covered by preference rating orders or cetificates may also be constructed, Farm Improvements On the farm there are many projects which may be completed for less than $1,000, the figure cited as the limit for farm construction in the order. For this amount all wet spots may be tiled, chicken houses may be built, barns remodeled, hog houses, milk houses, grain bins and corn cribs constructed.

Again, no limit has been put which may be spent to put homes on the amount of money which may be spent in necessary repair ing already on the farm may be walls and porches, put new floors put in first class condition, ac-
