At The Theatre

"His Butler's Sister" is a Universal production with Deana Durbin, Franchot Tone and other stars. The heroine has singing ambitions, so goes to New York to join a brother whom she believes rich only to find him a butler in the home of a wealthy composer. How she overcomes her brother's dismay at her presence, becomes a maid in the house and finally marries her employer right under the nose of his fiancée—all this makes a racy and amusing picture.

The Fallen Sparrow is a thrilling story of international intrigue with Maureen O'Hara, John Garfield, Martha O'Driscoll and others.

Adapted from a best selling novel, this has an American hero who fought against Franco in Spain and who undergoes thrilling escape and tragedy to uncover Hitler's chief agent disguised as a refugee.

Collision Victims Are Recovering

Furman Emory, seriously injured in a truck and automobile collision at the intersection of the Georgia and Murphy roads last Saturday afternoon, is reported well enough to leave the hospital Thursday. He suffered chest injuries and several fractured ribs. Two children riding in the car with him were treated for superficial injuries, and Earl Anderson, who was riding on the back of the truck, was in the hospital suffering from cuts and bruises, but was dismissed early in the week.

Chief of Police Homer Cochran placed Vernon Nichols of Cartoogechaye under $300 bond pending the outcome of Emory's injuries. Nichols was listed by the officer as the driver of the truck which he said was owned by Mr. Anderson.

Veterans Urged To Apply For Unemployment Compensation

A joint statement issued this morning by W. R. Curtis, Acting Chairman, and Ralph Moody, Chief Counsel of the Unemployment Compensation Commission seeks to clarify the effect of a regulation adopted by the Commission last Saturday with respect to veterans' claims.

"All returning veterans should file claims within six months of discharge in accordance with the Law's provision and we urge them to do so.

"We do not want any veteran to forfeit inadvertently his future benefit rights in unemployment insurance by failing to apply within six months of his military discharge. Consequently, if the date on which a veteran files is longer than six months after he left the armed forces, this Commission, up to January 31, 1945, will still accept his claim, using the date of his certificate of discharge by the Government as the date of his application for unemployment compensation."

Regardless of whether or not a veteran has occasion to draw unemployment compensation benefits within this six-month period, or whether or not he is able to work, he should file a claim for unemployment insurance during this period so that his right to draw benefits later on will be established. Only in this way can his record of past earnings in insured employment be credited to his account for the future.

To make the transfer of his earned insurance credits, a veteran should apply at once to a claims-taker of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, to an interviewer of the United States Employment Service, or to a local Veterans' Employment Representative. They are located at Employment Offices throughout the State.

Southern Railway And Nation At War

The Southern Railway System has received one of the first certificates of merit given by "War-time Advertising Awards" for a newspaper advertising campaign "contributing to the welfare, security and activity of the nation at war."

"I'm tired tonight — and I'm proud of it" headlines the Southern advertisement singled out for special recognition.

Signed by Ernest E. Norris, President of the railway, the prize-winning advertisement emphasizes the contribution which railway employees are making to the war effort by their unrelenting toil — keeping the wheels rolling under the biggest transportation load in all the long history of the Southern Railway System.

Concluding his complimentary message to the Southern's 45,000 employees, Mr. Norris said:

"It's a big job . . . a tough job . . . a vital job. But it's being done . . . and done right. That's why the men and women of the Southern are tired when they go home from the job these days . . . and 'proud of it'."

This advertisement appeared in the May, 13, 1943 issue of the Press and Highlands Maconian.

PAN AMERICAN TANKER SKIPPER DECORATED BY ADMIRAL LAND

350 Members of the Propeller Club of New York Witness Award of the Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal

Comm. John Lund, master of tanker, S. S. Pan Maryland, receiving from Rear Admiral Emory S. Land the Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal for heroic rescue at sea.

New York — Commander John Lund, master of the Pan American tanker, S. S. Pan Maryland, was honored at a luncheon held in the Waldorf-Astoria, and presented with the Merchant Marine Distinguished Service Medal. The presentation, on behalf of President Roosevelt, was made by Rear Admiral Emory S. Land, Chairman of the U. S. Maritime Commission, before 350 members and guests of the Propeller Club of New York.

After reading the presidential citation dealing with his heroic rescue of 27 Norwegian seamen, Admiral Land paid the high compliment to Lund by calling him "the salt of the earth." "And I know of no higher compliment which can be bestowed on a man," he added.

Further honors were paid to Captain Lund by James Patterson, general manager of Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company, who presented the skipper with the original drawing of a tanker on convoy at sea. Captain Lund was almost as pleased with this drawing, executed by the famous marine artist Hunter Wood, now of the U. S. Coast Guard, as he was with the medal. He said he would treasure them both, and the drawing would soon hang on the wall of his home.

Captain Lund, a native of Denmark, started his sea career in 1916 on schooners. During World War I he sailed as an ordinary seaman on old wooden ships. He left the Old World in 1919 and arrived here, fittingly enough, on July 4th, Independence Day. Also fitting is the fact that he joined Pan American Petroleum & Transport Company on October 12, 1936, the birthday of another great navigator, Christopher Columbus.

An interesting fact is that the ship, GEORG STAGE, a full-rigged Danish training ship which gave Captain Lund his early seamanship, is now known as the JOSEPH CONRAD, in service in this war training cadets for the U. S. War Shipping Administration. In addition to a class full of high-ranking naval and maritime ship-
