Sgt. Zoellner

Killed In Action April 8th In Germany

In answer to the many friends who have so sympathetically asked for more news of Staff Sergeant Henry Zoellner, killed in action in Germany, April 8, his mother, Mrs. Carl H. Zoellner, gives the following excerpts from a very much appreciated letter she received from Staff Sergeant John Stephen Potts. The two sergeants went through school together, enlisted and took training together and went overseas together in the Seventh Armored Division, known to the men as "The Lucky Seventh." Quoting from Sergeant Potts' letter:

"Words, words, what are words when one's heart is filled with misery. They used words when they made a report on Henry's death. Died in action, a valiant death, defending his country that all of us might live the American way. He gave his life not only for those at home, but also for those close to him in the field of battle. All who were close to Henry are proud they have known him. He has gone but his memory will linger in our hearts and minds forever. He has given those in close contact with him something more precious than life itself.

"He was killed instantly at Oberkirchen in the Rhur pocket by machine gun fire while we were spearheading for the First Army. He gave his life for you and me and I know he would want you to be brave as he was when he faced the dangers of life and death in battle. Duty called and he went. It is now your duty to be brave and I know you won't disappoint him. Henry will find that the torch he carried so valiantly into action has been taken up by willing hands. It is our duty to carry on where he left off, and he will not find us shirking that duty. In Henry's death I have lost something very precious—the best and grandest friend I ever had. Your friend in mourning, Steve."

From the Secretary of War, Mr. and Mrs. Zoellner have received Staff Sergeant Zoellner's Purple Heart Award, a certificate of gratitude from President Roosevelt, and a certificate of merit. Last week they received a captured German rifle, without details, from a member of Sgt. Zoellner's battalion.

Since Mrs. Zoellner was asked to write an editorial for the Seventh War Loan drive she hopes "it is not too late for every one to buy one more bond in honor of The Lucky Seventh Armored Division, who fought nine long months to maintain our glorious American freedom".

The government is planning to bring Staff Sergeant Zoellner's body home if possible. If this is not possible, memorial services will be held later.

Dr. Carodemos To Talk On Plastics Friday

"Plastics: what they are, and what they will do", is the title of a talk to be given at the Highlands Museum Friday evening at 8:15 by Dr. Peter Carodemos of Clemson college. The development of these new materials is one of the outstanding achievements of modern chemistry.

Dr. Carodemos, who is himself engaged in the development of plastics, will talk of what they will mean in all our lives. We are undoubtedly entering an era of plastics, and this lecture promises to be intensely interesting. The lecture is open free to the public.

The showing of Kadachrome slides on Thursday evening by Ralph M. Sargent was attended by nearly one hundred persons. Views from all the surrounding mountains were shown. Mr. Sargent has been scheduled by the Museum to present a showing of slides of native Blue Ridge mountain flowers on Wednesday, July 25.

The children's nature study class which meets every Tuesday morning, is organizing a Junior Audubon Club. Visitors have been registering at the Museum at the rate of 30 to 40 daily.

On Saturday, August 4, the Museum will hold its annual flower show, with Mrs. Eliot Caziarc as chairman. For the past several years this flower show has been a popular event, giving residents and visitors a chance to see some of the fine flowers from many of the notable gardens in and around Highlands.
