PHONE COMPANY ASKS AUTHORITY TO RAISE RATES

$26,000 More Annual
Revenue Needed,
Body Told

The Western Carolina Telephone company, which serves Franklin, Highlands, and other communities in this area, is seeking a rate increase.

Russell E. McKelvey, general manager, appeared before the N. C. Utilities commission Tuesday, asking authorities to increase rates, according to a Raleigh dispatch. Mr. McKelvey yesterday afternoon had not returned to Franklin, and details were not available.

The company, it is understood, has not had a rate increase since it was organized, many years ago.

Mr. McKelvey told the commission that the company needs to raise its rates in order to meet increased operating costs. The increases sought would boost the company's revenues in North Carolina (it also operates an exchange in Clayton, Ga.) by an estimated $26,470 annually.

Citing the program of expansion under way, the firm, which has its headquarters in Franklin, stressed, the point that it needs additional capital to continue the proposed improvements, and that it cannot attract capital unless its income is large enough to insure a profit over operating expenses.

The company operates exchanges at Franklin, Highlands, Sylva, Cashiers, Bryson City, and Cherokee, in North Carolina, and the one at Clayton, in Georgia. The petition to the N. C. Utilities commission applied only to the exchanges in this state.

Rotarians Assume Responsibility Of Uniforming Band

The Franklin Rotary club has assumed responsibility for seeing that the school band here is uniformed.

The club voted to take over the project, following investigation by a committee previously appointed to obtain information and make recommendations.

The committee reported that in many cases members of the band will be provided with uniforms by their parents, and thus it will be necessary for the club to raise funds to buy uniforms for only about 30 of the approximately 65 in the band.

The uniforms will cost about $50 each, the committee reported. The method of raising the funds has not been decided upon.

The uniforms, chosen in consultation with Band Director S. F. Beck, will consist of trousers (for boys and girls), coats, and caps, and will be solid red, except for a white stripe down the outer side of the trousers.

Reid To Be Speaker; Band To Play; Admission To Be By Ticket

SECTION ON GRADUATION
For other Macon County school graduation news, see second section of this issue.

Eighty-three Franklin High school seniors, representing many Macon County communities, will receive their diplomas tomorrow (Friday) evening, as the graduation exercises at the Macon Theatre bring down the curtain on the 1949-50 school year here. The program is set for 7:30 o'clock.

As has been customary for several years, admission will be by ticket only. Since no auditorium in Franklin will accommodate the number who always wish to attend the commencement programs, the school allots six tickets to each senior, to be distributed as he or she wishes.

Highlighting this year's graduation will be an address by Paul A. Reid, who only recently was installed as president of Western Carolina Teachers college, Cullowhee.

Another feature of the program will be selections by the school band.

Miss Sarah Dalrymple and Miss Jo Ann Hopkins, both of the Cartoogechay community, are this year's honor students, and will deliver the valedictory and salutatory addresses, respectively.

With the audience seated, members of the graduating class will enter the theatre to the march from Verdi's "Aida". That and the recessional, the march from "Tannhauser", are traditional in Franklin High school commencements. Mrs. Henry W. Cabe will be pianist, as usual.

Following the singing of "America" by the audience and the invocation, by the Rev. Hoyt Evans, Miss Hopkins will deliver the salutatory, and Curley Walker will play "Chanson Moderne" as a clarinet solo.

President Reid's address will come next, after which the school band will play Sigmund Romberg's "Stout-Hearted Men".

Principal R. G. Sutton will present the awards and certificates, and County Supt. Guy L. Houk will confer the diplomas.

Miss Dalrymple then will deliver the valedictory, the seniors will sing their class song, and Mr. Evans will pronounce the benediction.

Marshals for the commencement events, selected on a basis of scholastic standing, are the following juniors:

Miss Carolyn Bryson, Dudley Conley, and the Misses Una

Heavy Primary Election Vote Seen Saturday

Races For Sheriff, U. S. Senate, School Board Center Of Interest

With the races for sheriff, U. S. senator, and county board of education the center of interest, Macon County voters will go to the polls Saturday to select party nominees in the biennial primary election. The candidates picked Saturday will run in the general election this fall.

This year's primary is unusual, in that a local Republican contest is to be decided at the polls. The Republican usually agree on nominees prior to the primary election.

The pre-election registration—established at 200—is considered indicative of a heavy vote.

Both the Democrats and Republicans will select their nominees for sheriff in Saturday's primary.

The four-way Democratic contest is between Lester L. Arnold, former restaurant man and one-time register of deeds, J. B. Brendle, teacher, L. B. Phillips, coal dealer and service station owner-operator, and Harry Thomas, for many years manager of the Farmers Federation here.

The Republican contest is between J. P. Bradley, who now holds the office, and Walter M. Burch.

The race for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator also is a four-way affair, although the candidacy of one—Olla Ray Boyd, pig breeder of Pinetown—is not taken seriously by political observers. Most students of North Carolina politics consider that the race lies between Frank P. Graham, the incumbent, and Willis Smith, though R. R. Reynolds, of Asheville, a former U. S. senator, is conceded to be an able vote-getter, and a heavy vote for Reynolds might result in a second primary.

Dr. Graham, former president of the University of North Carolina, was appointed to the office upon the death of Senator J. Melville Broughton. Mr. Smith, Raleigh lawyer, is a former president of the American Bar association.

Eleven persons—10 men and one woman—are seeking the Democratic nominations for the five seats on the county board of education. (A single person, Mrs. O. C. Hall, of the Sealy community, is filed for the Republican nomination).

The 11 are Mrs. Betty Leach Alexander, office worker, of Franklin, J. F. Browning, Cowee township farmer, Robert B. Dufree, Highlands minister and former teacher, Fred A. Edwards, Highlands merchant, Walter Gibson, farmer of Franklin township, T. T. Love, of Nantahala, Nantahala Power and Light company employe, Ray E. Norton, Highlands engineer, C. Gordon Moore, of Franklin, state highway commission employe, Charles W. Nolen, of Cartoogechay, who is connected with Nolen and Harrison Electric company, Robert S. (Bob) Sloan, Franklin newspaperman, and J. C. Sorrells, of Cowee township, who is a partner in Mashburn-Sorrells company, automobile dealer.

Mr. Browning, Mr. Edwards, Mr. Gibson, Mr. Moore, and Mr. Sloan are members of the present board, of which Mr. Moore is chairman.

Considerable interest also has been shown in the races for the Democratic nominations for

Political Advertising Is Omitted This Week

In keeping with its policy, The Press this week carries no political advertising.

The policy, established shortly after the present management took over the paper, is to publish no political advertising in the issue immediately preceding an election. The purpose of the rule is to prevent any party or candidate from using the newspaper to make last-minute charges that the opposition would have no chance to answer through the paper.

representative from this county and state senator from this, the 33rd, district. Interest in the state senate race is heightened here by the fact that Macon has a candidate for that office, for the first time in 18 years. Each of the other counties—Cherokee, Clay, Graham, and Swain—in the district has furnished at least one senator during that period, and one county—Swain—has had the senatorship five times.

The candidates are R. S. Jones, Franklin attorney, Kelly E. Bennett, Bryson City druggist and former state senator from this district, and Lyndon E. Conley, an employe of Conley's Drug store in Bryson City.

Two candidates from Graham county—H. F. Carpenter and Baxter Campbell—filed for the office, but both withdrew in favor of Mr. Jones.

The race for representative lies between C. Tom Bryson, Cullasaja merchant and former register of deeds, and C. A. Elmore, of Cowee, former teacher.

The other three local and district contests are for clerk of superior court, places on the board of county commissioners, and the solicitorship.

The candidates for clerk are J. Clinton Brookshire, of Cartoogechay, who holds the office now, and Miss Kate McGee, now employed in the office of register of deeds.

Five are candidates for the two places on the board of commissioners: W. W. Edwards, Highlands hotel man, John W. Roane, Cartoogechay farmer, C. C. Stamey, Smithbridge farmer, Sam J. Waters, lumberman of Nantahala, and L. W. Rice, Sr., retired Highlands business man. Mr. Edwards and Mr. Roane are the present commissioners.

W. E. Baldwin is unopposed for renomination as chairman of the board of commissioners.

In the race for solicitor of this, the 20th, judicial district, Thad D. Bryson, Jr., of Bryson City and Franklin, the present solicitor, is opposed by A. A. Rice, Sylva attorney.

On the state Democratic primary ballot, the voters also will choose between Emery E. Denny and Oscar O. Efrid, for associate justice of the supreme court, a post now held by Mr. Denny, and Waldo C. Cheek and Hoke R. Bostian, for commissioner of insurance. Mr. Cheek is the present commissioner.

The polls will open Saturday morning at 6:30 o'clock and close at 6:30 in the afternoon.

Miss Moses Named To N.C. Collegiate Press Body Office

Miss Phyllis Moses, of this county, has been elected general secretary of the North Carolina Collegiate Press association, it has been learned here.

Miss Moses, rising sophomore at Western Carolina Teachers college, Cullowhee, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. N. Moses, of Cullasaja.

She was elected to the secretary's position at a recent meeting of the Collegiate Press association held at Woman's college, Greensboro, which she and two other W. C. T. C. students attended.

Miss Moses has served this year as freshman reported on The Western Carolinian, W. C. T. C. newspaper, and for two quarters has been the publication's circulation manager.

Peyton Here In Interest Of Reynolds' Candidacy

Wythe M. Peyton, former Asheville postmaster and widely known in Democratic circles in Western North Carolina, was in this county Monday in the interest of the candidacy of Robert R. Reynolds for U. S. senator. Mr. Reynolds, a former senator, is one of four in the race for the Democratic nomination.
