

SEAGLE DIES AT AGE OF 100

Native Brought Here From Washington For Burial

Samuel Seagle, a Macon County native, died last week in Sedro Woolley, Wash., at the age of 100.

Mr. Seagle, a former resident of the Coweeta community, had been living in Sedro Woolley with his daughter, Mrs. James Coates.

Say: "I saw it advertised in The Press."

Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Asbury Methodist church here, with the Rev. Robert L. Poindexter officiating. Burial was in the church cemetery.

Mr. Seagle, a retired farmer and a member of the Asbury church, was born April 12, 1851, the son of George and Mrs. Martha Pressley Seagle. He was married October 2, 1885, to Miss Gemma Sanders, who died eight years ago.

Surviving, in addition to Mrs. Coates, are four sons, Henry, of Lawrenceville, Ga., Oscar, of Florida, and Bass and William, of Coweeta; three daughters, Mrs. Weaver Donaldson, of Candler, and Mrs. Bill Barr and Mrs. John Cabe, of Hamilton, Wash.; 120 grandchildren and great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild.

Potts Funeral home was in charge of arrangements here.

State College Answers Timely Farm Questions

Q. Does warfarin kill mice as well as rats?

A. Yes. Warfarin reduces the normal clotting ability of the blood and causes the rodents to die by internal bleeding. It is equally effective on rats and mice, but takes a little longer baiting period to control mice. The rodents are not killed immediately. Warfarin must be eaten by a rat or mouse over a period of days, usually five to 14.

No difficulty whatever is encountered in getting rodents to eat warfarin. No pre-baiting is necessary, and no bait shyness develops. For best results, shallow containers should be used. They should be placed in rat runways behind boards leaning against the wall, or near holes and cracks where rats are known to go in and out.

Q. How many soil samples were analyzed in North Carolina last year?

A. About 80,000 soil samples were analyzed in 1950 by the soil testing laboratory of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture. In each case farmers were given recommendations on the amount and kind of fertilizer and lime to use for specific crops. Incidentally, the fall months are a good time to have soil tested, since the laboratory isn't as rushed then as in the spring.
