Jamison Moves Business
After 40 Years Service
In The Same Location

After doing business for 40 years in the same spot, Grover Jamison, Sr. (he and two sons now operate the business under the firm name of Jamison, Jewelers) last week moved his jewelry business.

The new location is the store in the Macon theatre building formerly occupied by Martin Electric company.

The one-story building, next door to the post office, in which Mr. Jamison has been in business since about 1912, he recalled this week, he bought at that time from Col. Howe, who had operated a barber shop there.

At some time in the future, Mr. Jamison said, plans call for razing the old building and erecting a new structure. When that is done, the business will be moved back across the street again, to its long-time location.

STATE OFFICERS HERE

C. W. Blanchard, director of plant operation for the state board of education, and C. H. Jourdan, heating engineer, spent Tuesday and Wednesday of last week visiting Macon schools and giving instruction to janitors on the care of heating systems and maintenance of buildings.

They were accompanied on their visits by County School Supt. Holland McSwain.

TO THE VOTERS OF MACON COUNTY:

As I have been urged by many friends throughout Macon County to run as a member of the Board of Education, I hereby announce myself as a candidate, subject to the Democratic May 31st, 1952, primary. I think as the people think in this township, Smith Bridge, Otto School district, that we should have one member on the board. I have children in school and am very much interested in schools, transportation, etc. Your vote and influence will be appreciated.

Thank you,
CLAUDE W. CABE
Adv.
