hold next year's meeting at the The Rev. J. H. Brendall, Jr., pronounced the benediction. This year's gathering was marked by two innovations. The first was identification tags. On each person, as he registered, was pinned a tag bearing not only his name . but also the name of his branch of the family.

The second was an exhibit of work of members of the family and family heirlooms. This display included a number of portraits painted by George Pat-ton, who is just back in the States after two years spent in Europe on an art fellowship; a charcoal landscape, with fig-ures, by Mrs. Joe Setser; watercolors by James B. Porter and another group by Mrs. Porter; an oil painting done by Mrs. George A. Jones about 1885; $180.240.300 materials designed by Miss Annie Will Siler, of New York, used by President Franklin Roosevelt in the White House and other materials used in the house of representatives and senate chambers; lamp and lampshade designed by Miss Hope Daniels, of New York; the hand weaving and pillowlace work of Miss Lucy Morgan, of Penland; books of poetry by S. H. Lyle, Jr., and by Gilmer A. Jones; a table, the top of which is an old bread tray, made and carved by Miss Laura M. Jones; crochet work, lace, and baby dresses made by Mrs. Timoxena Siler Sloan in the 1880's; a child's dress made by Mrs. Alice Siler Robison about 1870; a quilt, with handwoven lining, made by Mrs. Althea Swain Siler, wife of William Siler, one of the early settlers of this county, when she was a girl; and an "autograph" quilt of Mrs. Laura Amelia Lyle, made up of squares done by her friends and autographed.
