WHEN A FREIGHT CAR rolls down the "hump" at our new $14 million Citico Yard at Chattanooga, Tennessee, even the wind resistance of the car is automatically measured.

While the car is rolling, a radar device instantly picks up and evaluates all the many factors that affect its rollability - weight, speed, size, wind, weather and others. Then the magic brain of an electronic computer regulates the retarder brake in the track under the moving car so that it will couple safely and gently to another car standing far down in the yard below.

This is a new kind of railroading. You'll see it at work in countless ways on the Southern today-at Citico, and in our other multi-million dollar push-button yards at Knoxville, Tenn. and Birmingham, Ala. And still another ultra-modern electronic yard to cost $15 million is now under construction at Atlanta, Ga.

Yesteryear railroading is "gone with the wind" on the Southern. Today's modern railroading means better living for all in the South.
