FRIDAY THE 13th was a lucky day for 12-year-old Emmett Paul Harding, III, of Atlanta, Ga. On vacation here with his parents, he made a hole-in-one at the Franklin Golf Course. His one-in-a-million ace came on No. 4 hole and he was using a brassie. The boy has been golfing since he received clubs for Christmas.

A major activity of the Lower Coastal Plain Research Station at Greenville is the testing of tobacco breeding lines.

Garden Time...

By ROBERT SCHMIDT

At this time of the year we usually have a lot of complaints that tomatoes are rotting on the lower side of blossom end of the fruit.

This condition occurs on small green fruits as well as on fruits almost ripe. This is not an organic disease but rather a physiological condition known as blossom-end rot. It appears to be caused, or at least aggravated, by extremes in weather conditions—either by periods of dry weather or periods of excessive rainfall. In periods of dry weather it can be held in check by providing irrigation; however, don't wait until you have lost a large percentage of your tomatoes, but irrigate as soon as lack of sufficient moisture is evident. Mulching plants with a deep layer of straw will prevent loss of moisture from the soil and will cut down on the amount of blossom-end rot.

In the mountain area it will be necessary to control late blight if you wish to be successful with tomatoes. This is the same disease that attacks Irish potatoes. Use a copper spray such as tribasic copper sulphate or copper A compound and keep the plants well covered.

Don't forget to prepare for a good fall garden. If you have not already done so, sow seed as soon as possible for broccoli, cauliflower, collard, and cabbage plants. These may be grown in flats or boxes for transplanting to pots or tin cans for later transplanting to the field. Broccoli and cauliflower require more boron than is found in most of our soils. Boron deficiency causes hollow stems and an internal browning. To prevent this, mix two level tablespoonsful of common borax with the fertilizer for 100 feet of row.

Three good fall garden crops are Chinese cabbage, kohlrabi, and leaf lettuce. These crops are not found commonly enough in our fall gardens. Head lettuce does not do as well in the fall as leaf lettuce. A good variety is "Salad Bowl."

There is still time to plant bush snapbeans and small butterbeans for a fall crop. Try Wade, Tendergreen, Seminole, or Topcrop varieties of snapbeans and Henderson Bush or White Butterpea of the small butterbeans.

Red cherry growers receive $20 million a year for the crop.
