"Jubal"

Mrs. S. M. Winkleblack, president of the community home demonstration club, and Woodrow Franklin, president of the county rural development council, sponsor of the Macon contest.

A "tourist's-eye" tour of the community, featuring 20 points of interest, followed while the women started making preparations for the picnic supper.

Shortly before 7, members of the Franklin Rotary Club started arriving. Familiar with the culinary reputations of the Holly Springs women, they were quick to shift their regular supper meeting out there.

About 200 were on hand for the meal.

Brief Remarks
At a short program after the picnic, Dr. D. S. Weaver, of Raleigh, director of the N. C. Extension Service, spoke.

Other officials also offered brief remarks. They included L. I. Jones, of Washington, D. C., extension field representative for the U. S. Department of Agriculture; R. W. Shoffner, of Raleigh, assistant state extension director; Miss Ruth Current, of Raleigh, state home agent; W. B. Collins, of Raleigh and Asheville, district farm agent; Miss Mary Harris, of Raleigh, district home agent; G. L. Carter, of Asheville, district 4-H leader; and Fred Whitfield, of Asheville, district forester.

Congressman George A. Shuford, of Asheville, was sitting on the front porch of the community building when the motorcade arrived. He also spoke briefly.

Asheville's Mayor And Councilmen Find Tree For Meeting

Asheville Mayor Earl W. Eller and his councilmen found their shade tree here last Thursday afternoon.

Relaxed and coat-less under a tree at the side of the Holly Springs community building, the council held a token meeting after City Manager J. Weidon Weir "made it official" by sprinkling under their feet a bag of dirt brought from Asheville.

Coming here for the Holly Springs "thank-you" picnic dinner, they had requested a shady tree under which to conduct the municipal affairs that had piled up during the week.

Mayor Eller hurled a legal point which holds that council meetings must be held inside the corporate limits of Asheville by declaring "I am going to hold a meeting anyhow."

After City Manager Weir's legal dirt-slinging, the council passed a resolution saluting all rural communities in the area and congratulating Holly Springs "for their progress in farm, home, and community improvements . . . which leadership in such accomplishments will undoubtedly encourage all other communities to strive toward greater rural progressive development."

ends home as a "place to study" since being appointed a special judge by former Gov. R. Gregg Cherry and succeeding governors. And he still intends to keep the office.

"They may not like me down there and I might need it," he quipped.

In announcing Judge Patton's appointment as attorney general, Gov. Hodges said, "I feel extremely fortunate to obtain the services of a man of his ability, wisdom, and courage."

The judge is back "at the old stand" this week, holding a special criminal term in Asheville.

He and Mrs. Patton will take up residence in Raleigh after the swearing-in ceremony on the 21st.

A number from here are checking that date and hope to be in the capital city when his oath is administered.

Mountain, noticed a Ford pushing a new pick-up truck. It was later established that the pick-up belonged to Parks Brendle.

The boys became suspicious and called Sheriff Thomas. Investigating the call, the officer located the automobile and truck about a half mile out Watauga Road, where he said an attempt had been made to "straight wire" the ignition on the pick-up. Sheriff Thomas said the two youths seen with the vehicles ran into the woods. A bloodhound was brought in from prison camp, but was unable to pick up a trail.

Lee Wood later reported his Nash automobile had been stolen from his motor court in Franklin. It still has not been recovered.

Work Begins On Belk's Building

"Sidewalk superintendents" are eyeing a new construction project in Franklin.

Excavating is now under way on Main Street for the new Belk's Department Store, a modern one-story structure that will cost in the neighborhood of $50,000.

A bulldozer started nosing out a full basement last Thursday on the lot between Macon County Supply Company and Burrell Motor Company, which has been used by the latter firm as a used car lot. W. C. Burrell is building the store and will lease it to Belk's.

Wiley Clark, local contractor, is supervising construction.

According to Belk's Manager T. H. Callahan, the new building will more than double the floor space the store now has in the Ashear Building. Present floor space is 7,000 square feet, while in the new building it will be 16,000.

The building will be 50 by 160 feet, of concrete block and steel construction with brick veneer. The building front will be of glass and aluminum, Mr. Callahan said.

North Carolina certified small grain seed producers are expected to harvest about 6 1/2 per cent more certified small grain seed than they did last year.

'Players' Plan Comedy Friday

A three-act comedy, "Object Matrimony", will be presented tomorrow (Friday) night at East Franklin School by the Community Players.

Curtain time will be 8 o'clock. Directed by Mrs. R. S. Jones and Mrs. Ted Reber, the comedy is being sponsored by the Franklin Junior Woman's Club to raise money to buy shoes for needy school children.

Rehearsals have been under way for more than three weeks. Members of the cast include Mrs. Grace O'Mohundro, Miss Freda Siler, Mrs. Nancy Keener, Holland McSwain, Kenneth Tallent, Jack Angel, and Jim Williams.

REUNION CANCELLED

The 1956 reunion of the Bryson clan, scheduled for the fourth Sunday of this month, has been cancelled, according to T. D. Bryson, Jr., president. One will be held next year, he said.

DANCE TEAMS WIN

Inadvertently omitted from last week's folk festival winners were the three square dance teams, Franklin, East Franklin, and Otto. All were awarded blue ribbons and $10 cash prizes.

Raw Milk Fades Into Past Here

Raw milk delivery is a thing of the past now in Macon County.

Jake W. Addington, the last producer to make home delivery, has turned his route of about 60 families over to Nantahala Creamery.

Mr. Addington has been delivering from his dairy for about 25 years.

Has this change lightened the load for the energetic dairyman, who is in his 70's?

"Not much," he reports. "I still have to milk the cows."

North Carolina's estimated barley yield of 35 bushels per acre in 1956 would mean a new record average.

NEIGHBORHOOD MEETING

The Northwest Neighborhood Development Organization will meet at 7 o'clock Saturday night at the Slagle Memorial Building for a covered dish supper. A square dance will follow the regular meeting.
