

HOUK FAVORS DOE PROPOSAL

Representative
Expects To Be
Home Week Ends

He'll vote for the controversial bill to fix an open season on deer in certain areas of the state, Rep. G. L. Houk said Monday before returning to the General Assembly.

Representative Houk emphasized that he favored the open season only in certain areas. He said he did not consider himself qualified to decide which those are, but would leave that to the Wildlife Resources Commission, one of the backers of the bill.

(Clyde P. Patton, executive director of the commission, has said the open doe season would be conducted in this manner:

"At the present time, there would be only a few isolated places in the state where it would be necessary to thin out surplus does and balance the sex ratio. In no case would there be a general open season on does running concurrently with the buck season.

"I believe that one or two days, or even less in some cases, at the end of the regular buck season, would be sufficient time for bringing any of our deer herds into proper balance."

Representative Houk said he expects to be in Franklin practically every week end during the session. He flies to Greenville, S. C., and drives from there. He returns to Raleigh, via Greenville, on Monday afternoon and is on hand for the first session of the legislative week, on Monday night.
