This will be the last paper of the year, and if those few who read this article will allow me I will give forth with a few personal impressions of events that have happened during the year.

First, I would like to extend my compliments to Preston Henn, owner of the Macon and Franklin Drive-In Theatres for his Christmas showing of The Ten Commandments. Certainly, no picture could be more appropriate for Christmas. The picture is considered to be the greatest spectacle ever produced by many film critics. Critics are also quick to add that unlike many of the great extravaganzas produced by Hollywood, this picture has no lost its human touch. Certainly, with a cast which includes Charlton Heston, Anne Baxter, Edward G. Robinson, John Carridine, and many others, one is assured of fine acting. Another reason movie fans would want to see this picture is that it is Cecil B. DeMille's masterpiece and could well be his swan song. Another unusual feature is, that DeMille is turning all profits from the film over to charity.

Certainly, today he is the acknowledged master in producing pictures of this type. That DeMille regards this as his finest work is somewhat established by the interest he has taken in the showing of the film. The approval of his office was necessary before the film could be shown in Franklin. He determines the prices to be charged for admittance, even locally.

My congratulations, Mr. Henn, and I hope the people of this area show their appreciation for this fine Christmas program by turning out in large numbers. I feel sure that they will feel well rewarded.

Recently, I learned of a Macon County boy receiving an outstanding tribute for work in his chosen profession. The fact that he is my brother-in-law should not keep me from informing through the paper his many friends of this outstanding tribute.

The annual of Scotts High School, Scotts, N. C., was dedicated to Tom Setser, who teaches vocational agriculture there. The caption under his picture best tells the story.

"Through his leadership and counseling, he has helped many young people find themselves. His kindness, generosity and ability to understand others has endeared him to students, faculty and community." Congratulations, Tom.

It hasn't been many years since there was virtually no industry in Franklin. Through the efforts, largely of Franklin businessmen we have more payrolls now. I hope everyone thought of this, especially Burlington and Van Ralte employees, and did their Christmas buying here in Macon County.

President Eisenhower is a courageous man, but . . .

We have here in Franklin a business which has a much larger payroll than most of us would expect. The gross receipts for the year at the Franklin Livestock auction will run close to a half million dollars. Let's all back this growing concern. The more cattle that are offered for sale there the more buyers who will come to this market. The more buyers the better prices paid. Let's add to the slogan of "Trade at Home" the idea of "Sell at Home".

These are just a few ideas I have had running around in my mind for some time.

Merry Christmas, everyone.
Mrs. James I. Roland and two sons, of Raleigh, arrived last Saturday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Henson, and her sister, Mrs. John Kusterer, and Mr. Kusterer.
