Garden Time . . .

By M. E. GARDNER

There are always numberless jobs to be done in the fruit, vegetable and ornamentals gardens at this season of the year. By and large, the growing season has been excellent although a little on the wet side in most sections of the state.

Let's consider some of the things that need attention. After your black and red raspberries have finished bearing, remove all of the old bearing canes and burn them. Cut them off close to the ground. Fertilize with about one-half pound of an 8-8-8 fertilizer per plant.

The care and handling of dew-berry plants will be different in the lower Piedmont and Eastern Carolina than plants grown in the mountains. In the lower Piedmont and Eastern Carolina remove all canes, both old bearing and new. This procedure will very materially reduce the disease problems and the growing season is long enough for new canes to be developed for next year's crop. In the mountains, remove only the old fruiting canes. Fertilize as for raspberries.

Whether you renovate your present strawberry planting or start over with nematode and virus free plants, will depend on your location and condition of plants, and if the planting is under two years of age, it may pay you to renovate. Since most growers use the matted row, approximately 14 inches wide, we can use this system as an example.

Reduce the width of the row to about 8 inches by plowing off both sides. This can be done with a hoe in the home garden. Thin the remaining plants in the row so that you will leave a group of plants about every 14 inches. Keep the plants cultivated and free of weeds. After the runners form, they may be placed in such a manner as to fill the vacant spaces in the row.

In the home garden, fertilize the plants with about two measuring cups of nitrate of soda per 100 foot of row. Brush the fertilizer from the leaves.

MY SINCERE THANKS . . .

To each and every voter who supported me in the Democratic primaries.

To everyone, I would like to say that I am deeply aware of the responsibilities that go with the job.

If I am elected to be the Representative for Macon County in the North Carolina General Assembly I will do my very best to give all the people of Macon County the legislation that will be best for our county.

Thanks again, I deeply appreciate this high honor.
