also presented Miss Hampton a half-carat cut ruby on behalf of the Florida Air Pilots Association. Runner-up in the beauty event was Miss Betty Cloer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thad H. Cloer, of Route 2. She was sponsored by Burrell Motor Company. Miss Cloer received a piece of luggage. Arrangements for the beauty contest were handled by the Junior Woman's Club, with Miss Harriet Murray in charge. Others placing in the top 10 in the contest were Gale Fernandez, sponsored by Bower's Department Store; Ca role Watkins, DeSoto Trail Gift Shop; Virginia Boyd, The Fashion Shop; Alice Lee Bradley, Franklin Laundry; Jane Roten, Franklin Hosiery Company; Geneva Ledbetter, H & J Cafe; Sara Jean Mallonee, People's Department Store; and Brenda Cunningham, The Children's Shop. Judges of the contest were Hans Groenhoff, internationally-known aviation photographer and writer (who did pictures and story of the fly-in on assignment for FLYING MAGAZINE), Mrs. Groenhoff, William Strecker, Harry B. Collins, all of Miami, and Cecil Kiltie, of Fort Lauderdale.

Air-To-Ground
The Macon County Search and Rescue Squadron, headed by Frank Plyler, handled traffic at the airport. An air-to-ground "unicom" system was used by Mr. Plyler and his staff in the control tower to communicate landing and take-off instructions to the planes.

Once on the ground, the airplanes were directed to parking by a Jeep with a large "follow me" sign on its rear bumper.

People Turn Out
First to arrive for the fly-in were Mr. Burt and his party. They came in late Thursday afternoon to make advance arrangements for accommodations.

A "packaged deal" was offered the pilots and their families for the fly-in. For $15, they received two nights lodgings, five meals, free digging at the ruby mines, and many other extra services, including transportation. Friday, as the airplanes began to arrive one-by-one people began pouring out the highway in droves to watch the activity on the field. The parking lot stayed full most of the four days the visiting planes were here.

Mayor Burrell was on hand to greet each party arriving and to help arrange transportation for them. Radio station WFSB did special broadcasts direct from the airport at intervals during the afternoon and also extended greetings to the flyers tuned in on the WFSB frequency as they approached the mountains.

Error Is Noted
Prior reports of 75-100 airplanes expected were in error. Mr. Burt said they limited the event to 100 persons (not airplanes). Nearly 100 would have attended, he explained, but several cancelled plans when weather reports of a cold front moving in this area were received in Florida. "I'll tell you one thing," he declared, just prior to leaving for Miami Monday, "we'll have twice as many here next year."

Although invitations are being mailed to county and town officials and civic leaders in neighboring counties, the dedication is open to the general public, according to J. A. Gray, Sr., president of the Jackson County Chamber of Commerce.

Unofficially, the highway has been open and in use since the 17th.

Governor Hodges will dedicate the highway and cut a ribbon on the bridge. He will be introduced by David M. Hall, of Sylva, Democratic nominee for the 12th Congressional District.

J. Melville Broughton, highway commission chairman, and William Babcock, director, will be introduced by Dr. Paul A. Reid, president of Western Carolina College.

GI Insurance Now Lapsed Not Re-Opened

GI life insurance has NOT been re-opened for veterans who allowed their term policies to lapse after World War II, the Veterans Administration says.

The agency says the statement was prompted by many inquiries from World War II veterans seeking to get back their long-lapsed National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) term policies.

News of a Congressional bill containing an amendment which would have provided for a general re-opening of NSLI to World War II veterans was widely circulated in mid-August, VA adds.

But—VA emphasized—the bill was later changed to eliminate the NSLI re-opening provision.

More Expenses

ward veterans' burial expenses has been increased to $250 from its former list of $150, Veterans Administration has announced.

Applying only to deaths on or after August 18, 1958, the increase was authorized by Public Law 85-674.

VA said the allowance is payable for:

- 1. Veterans of any war or the Korean Conflict; or
- 2. Peacetime veterans who were receiving VA compensation at time of death, or who were discharged or retired for disabilities incurred in line of duty.

Not For Them

Q. I have been ordered to support my two children, who are in legal custody of my former wife. Can I get a GI loan to buy a house for them to live in?

A. No. VA requires that you certify that you intend to reside in a house bought with a GI loan. The court order that you must support the children does not alter the fact that you do not intend to live in the house yourself.
