

Brady's BLARNEY

By A Brady Called J. P.

Of all the seasons, fall is my favorite. She's (all seasons are female) provocative in her multi-colored sack dress of red, brown, yellow, and green. She's a season of sudden beauty.

Sunday, the family and I and my visiting mother (a Southern flower transplanted in the jungle of New York City) drove to Fontana Dam. It was a special trip for my mother. She wanted to lap up as much of the fall color spectacle as possible before returning to her balliwick of concrete and steel and an occasional "bold". Fall didn't let her down. Even my cynical soul was stirred by some of the vivid color, particularly on the foliage near Fontana Lake or the numerous streams feeding it.

Since the peak of the color is not expected until this coming week end, you might like to take the same trip. Just strike out on NC 28 and before long you're on the site of the dam, which in itself is something to behold.

One suggestion: go in the early morning or late afternoon. The sun striking the foliage from a sharp angle makes the colors stand out even more vividly.

DO YOU EVER GET THE URGE TO: Jump up and say "I do" when the minister at a wedding goes into that bit about objections to the marriage? Whack a loud gum chewer across the chops? Pitch your shoe through your TV picture tube in retaliation for a particularly lousy show? Ask a perfect stranger what he, or she, thinks of your home town?

Write a letter to the editor? Dig a hole and crawl in it? Laugh loudly during a "tear-jerker" movie? Tell someone what you REALLY think of them? Trade cars when the ash tray gets full? Introduce yourself as a minister when you hear a stranger cursing?

A TIP OF THE HAT TO: Miss Darlene Collins and her Franklin High newspaper, The Mountain Echo, for winning first place at the High School Editor's Roundtable.

All the agencies cooperating in the United Fund campaign... Everyone, particularly the males, who made it safely home from last week's Cherokee Indian Fair... Cartoogechay and Union schools for being accredited.

Rebecca Reeves and Tommy McNish for being chosen semifinalists in the National Merit Scholarship competition... Our Boy Scouts for handing out the Civil Defence booklets at homes over the county.

Franklin High's junior varsity for its victories this season (could they be putting some handwriting on the wall?)... H. Bueck, Macon's ubiquitous school superintendent, for his reelection as president of the W. N. C. Associated Communities.

Mrs. C. K. Olson's eighth grade deserves some kind of a citation for courtesy. I had occasion to visit the class last week and when I entered the boys stood. I was then introduced to each student. I suspect Mrs. Olson deserves most of the credit for their politeness. However, I got the feeling the students were enjoying their acts of courtesy and didn't view them as something the teacher asks. And it's my guess that their politeness spills over into everything they do. In this respect, they could teach a few grown-ups a thing or two.

WITH FARM WOMEN —
'Busy Miss' Jewel Fox Has Fight In Her 4-H Garden
By Virginia M. Nance
(Items this week on Macon, Stanly, and Washington Counties.)

Garden Versus Cut-Worms
Lettuce, onions, cabbage, okra, carrots, beets, cucumbers, and 15 tomato plants were proudly planted in a 4-H garden, under the direction of Mrs. Jessie Cabe, assistant home agent of Macon County.

Jewel Fox, Junior 4-H'er from Mountain Grove community, had her first experience in gardening—and in fighting cut-worms. But her persistence won out, and her family and visitors enjoyed many fresh vegetables from her garden.

Bar-B-Q Chicken?
Temping bar-b-q chicken, anyone? Many community and family picnics have been held in Stanly County this summer featuring this delicious outdoor meal, as the result of a demonstration by Elizabeth Watson, home agent.

Mrs. Q. C. Mobry, of Porter, said, "I have served bar-b-q chicken to about 75 guests since the demonstration. It is the easiest way I know to entertain, and the results are always so good. I know of many other club women who

EIGHTH GRADE BUILDS OWN VOLCANO

Thinking along the lines of do-it-yourself, Mrs. C. K. Olson's eighth grade constructed its own volcano for a science experiment. Bill Reid and Brenda Ledford brought some clay, Thomas Brooks brought some other materials, and Wayne Yonce, Alvin Healy, Paul Vinson, and Newton Shields fashioned the volcano. Mrs. Olson supervised the mixing of chemical compounds needed to create a volcanic eruption and the "big show" was ready. Shades drawn last Thursday afternoon in the classroom, a match was set to the chemicals and the class witnessed a flaming eruption. Watching the volcano in the picture above are (L to R) Mrs. Olson, Alvin Healy, and Bill Reid. (Staff Photo) have prepared this delicious outdoor meal too."

Low Calorie Desserts
Waistlines are being carefully watched in Washington County! With a new emphasis on tasty low calorie desserts, Mrs. Frances Darden, home agent, helped the club members compute the food value of several dishes, while they kept calorie content in mind.
Mrs. Bob Armstrong, Cross Road Home Demonstration Club, summed it up by saying, "I realize now that we get calories from all foods and it is up to us to choose wisely the foods that will help maintain healthy bodies as well as to check our weight."

Molasses Cookies Rich In Nutrients

Cookies are always popular, but sometimes they do not carry their full share of protective nutrients. The molasses cookies shown here have a sweet tasty flavor loved by children, and they also have plus food values from the unsulphured molasses, dried fruit, cereal and milk ingredients.

The crinkly topped cookies, called the Big Four, take their name from the four basic food groups suggested by the U.S. Department of Agriculture as needed daily. These four food groups include: fruit and vegetables; meat, poultry, fish and eggs; milk; bread and cereals. After getting foods from these basic groups daily, one supplements the diet with sweets and fats.

Big Four Cookies
1/2 cup shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup unsulphured molasses
1 egg
1 cup dry skim milk solids
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 teaspoon each, nutmeg and cinnamon
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon baking powder
1 cup grated carrots or grated raw sweet potatoes
1/2 cup raisins
1/4 cups rolled oats
Cream together shortening, sugar, unsulphured molasses and egg. Sift together dry skim milk solids, flour, spices, salt, soda and baking powder; stir into creamed mixture. Add grated carrot or sweet potato, raisins, and rolled oats; mix well. Drop by level tablespoons on a lightly greased cookie sheet. Bake in a moderately hot oven (400° F.), 10 minutes. YIELD: 6 dozen cookies.
