Mrs. Florence S. Sherrill, home economics agent, showed slides of the county fair. A discussion was held on ways to make next year's fair better. Mrs. Sherrill suggested that the club begin now to plan next year's exhibits and booths.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Callie Deal.

Housewives Want More For Pork Dollars
 Every North Carolina farmer knows that housewives (who spend the money) are demanding more meat and less fat for their pork dollars. But many of these same farmers think raising meat-type hogs is too expensive.

About the only extra expense involved, according to Jack Kelley, who is in charge of animal husbandry for the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service, is the cost of the boar. And, the farmer can even get this back through feed savings and better prices received from companies who buy on a value basis.

Suppose the meat-type boar costs $100 more than the usual type, says Mr. Kelley, and that you use this boar on 20 sows twice a year. If losses average one pig for each eight-pig litter, you would market 280 pigs. This way the meat-type boar costs only 36 cents more for each hog.

What do you get back? If a 200-pound meat-type hog brings 50 cents per hundred above what the packer calls a base price, you make an extra dollar. If these meat hogs get from weaning to 200 pounds on 31 pounds less feed, as tests have shown, you save 84 cents on your feed cost (figuring the cost of feed at 2.7 cents a pound).

Greater selling price and savings on feed come to $1.84 per pig. Deducting 36 cents (the cost of having a meat-type boar) leaves you a net gain of $1.48 per hog marketed.

Remember, too, adds Mr. Kelley, that a young meat-type boar has good salvage value.

Housewives Want More For Pork Dollars

Apple Relish
 14 large apples, peeled and quartered
 6 sweet peppers, 3 red, 3 green
 2 hot peppers, not too large
 6 onions
 1 1/2 cups brown sugar
 1/2 tablespoon celery seed
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 4 whole cloves
 1 to 2 pieces cinnamon bark broken up
 3 cups vinegar
 1 cup water

Chop apples, peppers, onions as you would for mincemeat (not too fine). Add other ingredients, cook for 10 minutes and pour into jars and seal. We like the winesap apples since they do not cook to pieces too quickly.
