Good morning!

Good morning!

Don't buy wildcat stocks

Don't go-out-of town to deal.

Don't deal with mail order houses.

Don't do anything against your town.

Don't fail to pay your bills promptly.

Don't fail to get oysters at McKeithin's
Next Wednesday, February 2d, is ground hog day.

A big head is often the result of a trip to the court house.

The Superior Court for Moore county convened in Carthage last Monday.

Many a man who professes to be sharp knows that a "cutting" remark does not pay.

After one takes a good look at the groom, he can understand why the bride's mother weeps.

Many a dairyman's idea of pure milk is the kind from which the cream has been skimmed.

We failed to publish the name of Bessie Cox of the second grade honor roll in last week's Pilot.

Prohibition Commissioner Kramer seems to agree that the first hundred years are the hardest.

The reason a man is naturally more honest than a woman is because he is more afraid of being found out.

Last week we had to omit several interesting articles on account of the crowded conditions of our advertising columns. They appear in this week's issue.

No doubt you have noticed that the man who isn't able to pay his grocery bill is able to take his family to the movies.

There are many novel features about the new cars, but they all require the same old-fashioned mortgage on the house.

A man devotes the first 20 years of his life to wishing for hair on his face, and the last 20 wishing for hair on his head.

As one citizen said yesterday, the danger of kissing lies not so much in contracting diseases as in contracting a lawsuit.

We have also noticed that some advocates of home industries are not always as industrious when at home as they should be.

The kind spelled l-y-e is used in making ordinary soap; the kind spelled the other way is used in making the soft soap commonly known as flattery.

One of his admirers says Mr. Bryan has never tasted liquor.—Ex.

The Pilot man thinks he is even a poor judge of good water.

When a man inherits money and spends it, people say it has made a fool of him. If he doesn't spend it, they say a tightwad like that doesn't deserve it.

Corra Harris says a man can't pick a wife intelligently without seeing her feet. And a woman can't judge a man intelligently until she sees him in defeat.

Many a man reaches the point every now and then when he feels that his life is devoted solely to raising children, raising taxes and raising what Sherman said war wa .

We always know when a woman pinches an article of fruit that she is going to take some other piece in the basket because she doesn't want the one that has been handled.

North Carolina will receive nearly $2,-500,000 in Federal aid for road building under a bill reported favorably by the House public roads committee last Tuesday morning.

What makes a lot of men stay at home more than they did before Prohibition became, in a manner of speaking, effective is the fear that someone will get away with their stock.

Secretary and Mrs. Josephus Daniels have extended invitations to all the members of the North Carolina Congressional delegation and their wives for a dinner at the Daniels home, in Washington, on the evening of Tuesday, February 15th.

The bill presented by Representative George R. Ross, providing for a six months service by grand juries in Moore and Richmond counties has passed both houses of the legislature, and has become a law by receiving the signature of Governor Morrison.

Last Sunday afternoon sixty large refrigerator cars, loaded with all manner of fruits and vegetables passed through Vass over the Seaboard Air Line Railroad on its way North, giving the people of that section an idea what it is to live in the garden spot of the world. It takes the South to feed the North both summer and winter.

The thermometer in front of the Pilot office last Friday, Saturday and Sunday registered 70 degrees in the shade, making Vass put on regular spring airs, and people setting on their front porches enjoying the balmy breezes. No better place on earth than right here. The people show it, always healthy, hardly ever sick, and funerals we don't know what they are. So if you want to enjoy health and live long come to Vass.

Other People's Bu

Taking exceptions to the way people run their business is a favorite of the American people. No community is different from for it isn't in this respect. charity should begin at home the work of eliminating criticism start at home.

It seems to be human nature low to think he could run and business better than it is being for example the newspaper. run the paper the way we do Of course not. Possibly you lot better, but this much we would not run it the way you would. No man ever ran a or any other business, just e would like to do. There is a part of every editor to please but he soon learns it can't be starts in determined to print of news that comes up, and learns that he can save a lot and unhappiness by leaving items that occasionally come there are times when he must story, even though it hurts best friends. If a certain appear it makes some people n is left out others are made wasn't printed. So the news icised either way it turns, de that the editor would like to body. The same is true of t ever other business. You differently from the other fe wouldn't even then run it to and we doubt if you'd run i Try to remember that before cism of the other fellow's bu will help business in which y be engaged.
