The lamentable fatal accident on Tuesday, in which the little Tyson boy was run over by an automobile, is an illustration of what may be expected to be followed by a series, if that locality should be made a part of the new highway through town. And yet there can be found some who think such a route more desirable than one on which there is a far less number of pedestrians, and at no time a congestion or accumulation of teams and automobiles.

If Jack Dempsey wants to do something really worth while, let him bring Grover Bergdoll back with him when he comes from Germany back to his native land.

SAD ACCIDENT

On Tuesday morning about nine o'clock, little J. Mac Tyson, the five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Tyson, was run over and instantly killed by an automobile driven by Mr. D. G. Ridenhour. The accident occurred across the street from McKeithen & Co's store. Upon seeing the little boy cross the street in front of the approaching car, Mr. Ridenhour stopped the car, and just as the car started moving again, J. Mac tried to recross the road and was struck. The accident was unavoidable and all who witnessed the tragedy declared that everything possible was done to avoid it.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev. O. B. Mitchell, pastor of the Baptist church, and Rev. M. D. McNeill, pastor of the Presbyterian church, at eleven o'clock, Wednesday morning with interment at Ephesus cemetery, near White Hill.

Since we had to loan all of 'em money, it would be a good idea for Uncle Sam to insist that the next war be conducted on a pay-as-you-enter plan.
