 the last. While his health had been declining for some time he never lost his interest in nor oversight of the business which his untiring effort and astute management had helped to make successful. Descended from a family long and favorably known in this section, he inherited the many amiable qualities which so endeared him to those who came in closest contact with and really knew the man he was. These likable legacies he cultivated and exemplified in his dealings and association with his fellowman. No complaint of changing business conditions or fault findings with the times in which he lived were ever heard to fall from his lips. He was always able to adjust himself and his affairs to meet conditions as they arose. Of his fellows, no criticism or bickerings ever came from him. His seemed to be the happy faculty of attributing to each the right of his opinion without the hardness of condemnation because it did not always square with his own. While his tongue is silent in that silence that knows no breaking it leaves no memory here of an unkind word spoken of his fellow and no sting of a rebuke or cutting retort to haunt the recollection of any who associated with him in life. To us, this consideration and forbearance were the outstanding features of his strong and likable personality. 'Tis true he had his feelings and likes and dislikes as all of us, but these he did not portray to the offense of those whom he touched. Within the hallowed family circle, he was the embodiment of husband and father in all the words imply. To these loved ones he leaves the priceless heritage of a good name, a life usefully lived and a faith well kept. To his country he leaves the example of a man who served his day and generation well. To his friends he bequeaths the memory of one who was tried and true, faithful and just. Surely, a good man has ceased from his labors and is now at rest.

PINEHURST AYRSHIRE MAKES GOOD RECORD

Completing her second Advanced Registry record, producing 16,290 pounds of milk averaging 4.17 per cent. butter-fat making a total of 697.75 pounds of butter-fat, Otero Mitchell, of Pinehurst Farms, becomes the State Champion Ayrshire producer of North Carolina, states J. A. Arey, Dairy Extension Specialist for the State College of Agriculture. Mr. Arey says, "Otero is a persistent milk-er, averaging close to 1360 pounds per month, while for her best month she produced 1809 pounds. She has a previous record of 14,044 pounds of 3.92 per cent. milk."

The dam of Otero Mitchell is the far-famed Tootsy Mitchell, also of the Pinehurst Ayrshire herd. Tootsy was not given an opportunity of making a public record until she had passed her eleventh birthday. In that year she gave 14,729 pounds of 4.05 per cent. milk, dropped a living calf, and was started on her second record as a twelve-year-old, winning the North Carolina Championship over all breeds with 15,896 pounds of 3.94 per cent. milk.

Tootsy is not only a producer but a reproducer of champions, according to Mr. Arey. At this time four of her full-sister daughters have completed eight records averaging 13,499 pounds of milk, 529.75 pounds of butter-fat. This remarkable performance is another inter-breed championship for Pinehurst Farms. Tootsy's sire, Auchenbrain King of Beauty, is also a proven bull, having five daughters with six records averaging 13,083 pounds of milk, 413 pounds of butter-fat.

Prof. Cason and his faculty are to did work they have accomplished during the year, and the work, especially in the high school, done by Prof. Cason during his two school years in Pinehurst, has demonstrated his ability as an educator. From indifferent be congratulated on the most splendor work done in the 8th grade only the year before Prof. Cason took charge of the school, there is now a fully equipped high school of 86 pupils, and all requirements have been met this year for the the standardization for an accredited high school.

The athletic department not only has led in Moore county but has won many games of note at schools of considerable importance. The athletic grounds have been completed and double tennis court enclosed. Out-of-doors basket ball course and a volleyball court have been equipped on the extensive playgrounds, and all the pupils are encouraged in and supervised constantly in the use of these splendid playgrounds, coming to know it is just as important and normal to play as to work.

The health department of the school has come in for more than usual attention, and the question of undernourishment among the pupils has been seriously considered. The daily noon lunches have been served to the pupils under the supervision of Mrs. Bruce Cameron and Miss Rachel Hanna. Mrs. Leonard Tufts, a member of the board of education, presented the school with a splendid pair of health scales which are being used.

The splendid library in the school has recently ordered a large number of text books as well as histories and fiction. There is also a fully equipped laboratory apparatus for instruction of all the sciences as well as an excellent set of Dooge's maps, and other equipment. Some beautiful copies of masterpieces have been secured for the school room with the proceeds of 99 subscriptions secured for the Farmers' Wife magazine, solicited by the pupils. These pictures have been hung in the class rooms; Miss Person's room led in this work.

The patrons feel justly proud of the accomplishment of the Pinehurst public school year just closing, and congratulate Prof. Cason and his splendid corps of teachers for their untiring efforts for the uplift of the community in the great work they have done.
