GREAT SEA PICTURE COMING TO THE CAROLINA THEATRE

Remember the auto racing stories Wallace Reid used to have? Here is their author, Byron Morgan, again—this time with a melodramatic sea story stowed to the gunwhales with atmosphere and realism.

It is a picture that will please the vast majority and win more fans to favor the sea pictures, if indeed there are any motion picture devotees who are not inclined that way already.

A splendid cast has been chosen to interpret the story, including Rod La Rocque, who has won such deserved fame in DeMille's "Ten Commandments," Jacqueline Logan, with whom all Sandhill picture goers are familiar, George Fawcett, than whom there is no greater character artist, and Maurice (Lefty) Flynn, the famous football player.

The picture contains a series of sea scenes that are remarkable for their thrilling qualities; scenes that form a fitting background for the climax that progresses powerfully and directly to its aim.

On account of the Chautauqua which opens at Aberdeen on Tuesday, and which should have the hearty support of everybody in the Sandhills, "The Code of the Sea" will not be shown at Southern Pines on that night.

Please note there will be but one performance and that one at Pinehurst on Monday night, June 9th at 8:20.

LINCOLN FARMERS SUCCESSFUL WITH EARLY HATCHED BROILERS

Feeling the need of some special crop this year, a number of Lincoln County farmers under the direction of County Agent J. G. Morrison, of the State College Extension Division, decide to try out the raising and selling of early hatched broilers. Incubators were bought and approximately 12,000 chickens were raised as a start in the venture. Up until the middle of May, 5000 of these chicks composing the early hatches were sold in Richmond, Baltimore and Washington. The average price received was around 54 cents per pound with the chicks weighing from 1½ to 2½ pounds each.

During the latter part of May, according to County Agent Morrison's report, the price dropped to 40 cents and the growers could not supply the demand from local nearby cities. One large store in Charlotte having heard of the nice broilers being raised in Lincoln, sent in an order for 500 and not enough chickens could be secured to fill the order due to the fact that the farmers were saving all of their early pullets and only selling the surplus cockerels.

Mr. Morrison states that he could not give the exact cost of raising the poultry but it averaged about 15 cents per chicken to feed until 10 weeks of age, and time for selling. This cost was based on the careful records of one grower whose chicks averaged two pounds each at the end of the ten weeks period. Best results in this early broiler marketing were obtained from the Rhode Island Reds, Barred Rocks and White Wyandottes.

The farmers taking part in this new project got as high as a 90 per cent hatch where their eggs were properly handled. One man raised 493 from a hatch of 501 chicks. It takes care and attention, however, to be successful in producing extra early chicks for market. Mr. Morrison found this out by comparing records from three farmers. One man took off a hatch of 400 chicks, he sold 47 to one farmer who lost all but seven, another bought 60 and lost all but 14 and still another bought 104 and reared 102.

Small boys are pretty well up in the three R's. We refer to 'rasting, radio and ragtime.

WHY FAMILY EXPENSES ARE LIKE AUTOMOBILES

Money in the home takes the place of "gas" in the car. It furnishes the motive power. The pace you travel depends on the amount you "feed" the engine!

It needs a steady hand at the wheel, a sure foot on the gas and brake, in the home just as in the car. In fast spending, as in speeding, there is danger.

The cars that give the best service are those that are driven carefully at moderate speed.

The family that gets along best is the one that saves consistently, spends wisely, steers carefully to reach the goal of better conditions.
