Mrs. Sallie Currie and Mrs. Herbert Monroe on route 2, spent Friday afternoon with Misses Crissie and Vera McLean.

I am pleased to send in to The Pilot this week a renewal from Mr. E. J. Ward, of Ellisville, Miss. A wealthy and influential citizen and proprietor of Wards Pharmacy. The check was accompanied with a very interesting letter in which Mr. Ward says in part "I enjoy so much reading The Pilot. It seems like a friend coming to see me. How is brother M. D. McNeill? I hope the very best. In school as a boy he was my real friend, and I'm sure he has few equals. Many years have passed since I went to school in Moore county, but they are fresh in my mind as yesterday. It was in Moore county I learned the true worth of character. I am sure if those of my friends whom I once knew in Moore only knew how well I could and would entertain them, they would pay me a visit." Mr. Ward who was a student at Union Home school, has a number of friends who are readers of The Pilot. Mr. and Mrs. Ward have recently returned from a trip on the coast and gulf of Mexico.

Mrs. J. T. Doss, accompanied her daughter, Mr. H. E. Brewer to her home at Winston-Salem this week. Miss Ruby Doss was also one of the party.

Dr. C. D. Dawkins made a business trip to Rockingham, Monday.

Plenty of Bermuda grass in Cameron. Mr. Frank Page, you are altogether welcome to LOADS of it.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Teague, of Sanford, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Thomas.

Mrs. Paul Joyner and Paul, Jr., of Vass, are visiting Mrs. Joyner's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wooten.

Pleased to report Mr. G. M. Thomas at home from the C. C. Hospital after such a narrow escape from death in a recent wreck reported in last week's letter. Mr. Thomas and family, his father, Mr. R. C. Thomas and family, desire to express through The Pilot their heart-felt thanks to the Cameron people for their rescue work in extricating Mr. Thomas from under both cars that had pinned him down.

Lawyer Saunders, of Charlotte, is visiting his brother, Mr. J. F. Saunders.

Mrs. Harris, of Charlottesville, Va., is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. R. Loving.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker and children, Miss Elizabeth Moore, of Raleigh, spent Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Thomas.

Mrs. A. W. Burt and son, Wellons, of Biscoe, stopped over Sunday afternoon with the correspondent, returning from the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cameron where they spent the day.

Messrs. Worsham and Ketcham, owners of the canning factory at Aberdeen, were in town Sunday and told the correspondent they were turning out a wonderful product in canned dewberries, that had been tested by experts who pronounced them the best ever, and better by far than California canned fruits and others famous canning factories.

Mrs. Worsham and Mrs. Fagan, of Aberdeen, were welcome callers Sunday afternoon at the home of the correspondent.

Miss Kate Harrington is home from Charlotte for a few days visit.

Mr. Marvin Thomas, of South Carolina, spent Sunday in town.

Mr. Warren Ferguson, of Chicago, arrived Sunday in response to a message conveying the sad intelligence of the death of his mother, Mrs. H. A. Kerr, who passed away at her home in Raleigh on Friday, June 27th, after a lingering illness.

The funeral services were conducted from the first Presbyterian church in Raleigh, by the pastor, Rev. McWhite. The interment took place at Southern Pines, Tuesday, July 1st. The burial services were conducted by Rev. M. D. McNeill, of Cameron. There were many beautiful floral offerings.

"The dead! Whom call we so? They that breathe the purer air, that feel, that know—things wrapt from us."

Card of Thanks

Through the columns of The Pilot, I wish to express my heart felt thanks to the many people who worked so faithfully where the miraculous accident happened to my husband, and for the many deeds of kindness shown in taking myself and children to visit him at the hospital, in offering their services in carrying on the work at our home, the kind words and letters of sympathy received. My husband is back at home now, and doing nicely. It seemed the great hand of God was by him, and I feel that we ought to give God the honor and thanks by giving Him His part of our life.—Mrs. Milton Thomas, Cameron, N. C.

Many, many years had passed since I saw the little colored maid, companion of my childhood, who used to "fetch and carry" for me, tuck me in bed at night, listen devoutly while I repeated my prayer, then lie down on her little couch close beside my bed. Saturday a colored girl called at my back door, saying "Here is some one to see you." Answering the call I saw a neat and rather distinguished looking colored woman, dressed in deep mourning, standing on the porch. She did not speak; just looked me straight in the face, and something in the twinkle of her eye, a peculiar turn of the mouth caused me to say, "Is this Rhode?" She replied, "Yes, Miss Mothy Jane, it is me and I'm so full I can't speak. We are the last of the white and colored who lived at the old home." Needless to say I was delighted to see her, and what a rush of childhood memories came over me. But now she is no longer Rhoda, but a highly respected and devout Christian woman, and great church worker; by name Alice Brown, of Jonesboro, married for many years, the mother of twelve children, some living, some dead. She has had her sorrows, as most of us do if we travel far the pathway of life. She has three daughters married, one living in Baltimore; one in Washington, D. C., and another in Tuskegee, Ala. Last year she spent six months at this wonderful Institute for the colored race. It was quite interesting to hear her tell all about her visit there. Now I wonder if any of the grand children of grandfather Jack McNeill, who are subscribers to The Pilot, and read the Cameron letter, will remember "Rhode."

The following sublime poem written by the Board of Aberdeen, was recently sent to the Cameron correspondent, who passes it on the The Pilot for publication, so that the few remaining old timers and subscribers to The Pilot who hope to attend the Home-Coming at old Bethesda church may have the pleasure of reading and then clipping for a memento.

Lay me there, O, lay me there,
When the blink is out, now feeble growing,
Where nothing stirs but the rustling
air,
The graves with withered leaves are strowing.

Lay me there, O, lay me there,
Near to the proud old oaken trees,
Beside the Old Kirk, langsyne, where,
The throngs, now dead, bent reverent knees.

The Shaw, MacNeill, the Blue, the Graeme,
In fulsome congregations thronged
To worship Great Jehovah's name,
And sing His praise in Psalms prolonged.

Silent now the Old Kirk bell;
Silent now the reverent choir,
That o'er my young heart cast a spell,
As if archangels thrummed the lyre.

The partridge whistles o'er the vale,
Where once fond lovers congregated,
And there poured forth the tender tale,
Of new-born love, of hearts true
mated.

Where are those lovers fond and leal?
Where that concourse of godly men?
They rest hardy in hallowed weal,
In silent bivouac through the glen.

A calm rests o'er the Kirk-Yard now,
Where bouyant youth were estwhile
keeping;
The sky looks down with her bonny
brow,
Like mother's watch on her children
sleeping.

Lay me there, O, lay me there,
Amid the hush of generations;
I want no dirge, but the rustling air,
And rest, sweet rest, sans lamentations.

GRIST FOR COMMISSIONER OF LABOR AND PRINTING

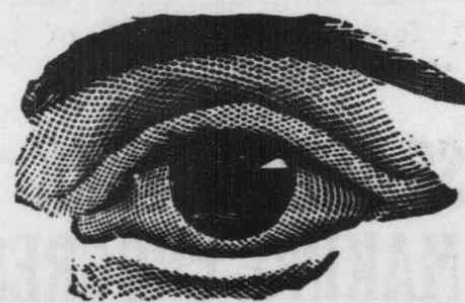

To the People of Moore County:

In 1917 when our boys donned their khaki and went forth to serve their country in the most terrible conflict that ever cursed the world, we promised then that, upon their return, we would give them preference in political matters. Among the many who fought on the battle-torn fields of France was Frank D. Grist, now candidate for Democratic nomination for Commissioner of Labor and Printing. He served with the 2nd Machine Gun Battalion, First Division, and participated in three major engagements. Machine Gunners occupied a most perilous position, and Grist was wounded on the Meuse-Argonne and spent eight months in a hospital.

Shipman, Grist's opponent, has held the office of Commissioner of Labor and Printing for 16 years, and was a clerk in this office prior to becoming Commissioner. He has served long enough. During the World War, while Shipman was feeding at the State's table, with a good salary, Grist was fighting and suffering for his country. He served his country in the hour of its distress, and we ought not to forget him now. I call on mothers and fathers whose sons served in this awful conflict, and upon patriotic men and women everywhere to vote for Grist in the second primary. In doing so, you will keep faith with the men who fought and suffered.

Yours very truly,
This June 28, 1924 R. L. BURNS.

FOR REGISTER OF DEEDS

Having been earnestly requested by many of my friends to enter a second primary to settle the contest for the nomination for the office of Register of Deeds, I hereby announce that a second primary has been asked for and will be held at the various precincts of the county on July 5th, 1924.

I thank my many friends who stood by me in the first primary and as I made no canvass for votes, I consider the vote I received, with so many in the field, very gratifying. I will appreciate your support on July 5th.

Again thanking you, I am,
E. C. MATHESON.

TO MOORE COUNTY DEMOCRATS

Unfortunately we are to have a second primary, my opponent, Mr. Matheson, having called for another family contention. This is a surprise to many of his own friends, as after his active canvass before the first primary out of 2077 voters over 1500 voted for a change in the Register's Office, mainly on the ground that his 12 years in office in Moore County is long enough. And so far as I know, the primary was fairly and honestly conducted.

I urge my many friends to be active in getting out our full vote and see that the expressed will of the people be not now set aside. Assuring you of my appreciation in the majority given me in the first primary over Mr. Matheson, and urgently requesting my friends to go to the polls on July 5th, and give me an overwhelming majority and again thanking you, I am,

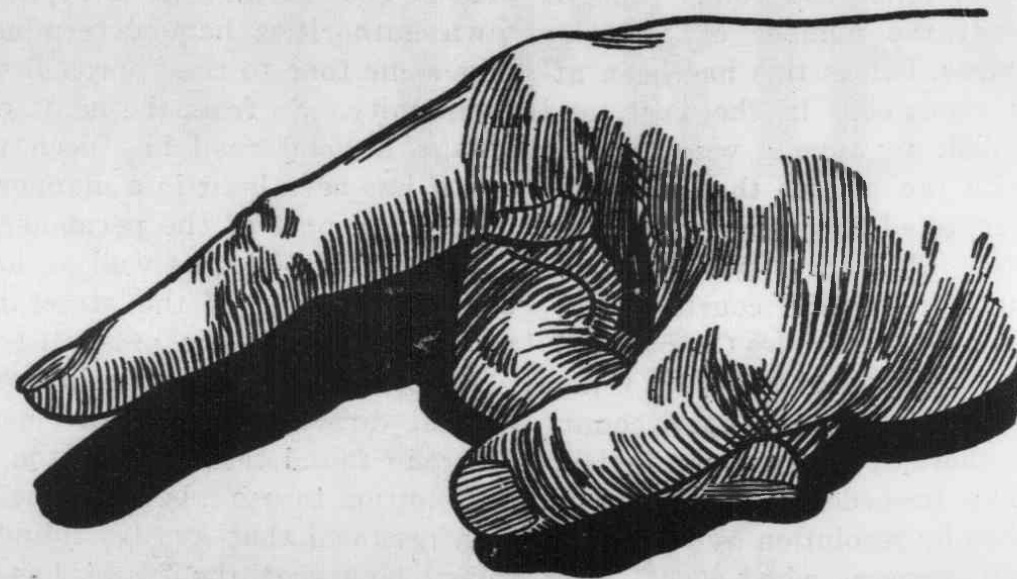

Respectfully yours,
(Ju.5) W. J. HARRINGTON.
