

TRAINING CAMPC FOR MOORE BOYS

available and with the military features will be all the sports and games in which boys and young men like to indulge.

The boys who are eligible must be at least 17 years old, of sound physical condition and of good character. The government furnishes clothing, subsistence, railroad fare to and from the camp, free medical services, free instruction in athletics, sports, army drill, marching, riding, target and pistol shooting. Each camp has its religious services with its own chaplains who will be prominent factors in the camp work. The boys come in contact with capable men as instructors, and with a proper type of other boys, and come away with a better idea of discipline, of manhood, of industry and healthful advancement than when they arrive there.

Jerry can be consulted at his office at Aberdeen, or a telephone call will get him at almost any time. The camp involves no responsibility in case of future wars for the boys are under no obligation to the government in any way. When the thirty days of the outing is finished the relations between the boys and the government ceases and they are on exactly the same plane as boys who have not attended the camps. Jerry says those interested should confer with him as soon as possible, as the number allotted to Moore County is not very large.

BARBER BUILDS NEW CLUB HOUSE

cement concrete in the base and logs for the upper structure. The basement will serve for a heating plant and other purposes. The upper story will have a large club room, lockers, baths, etc., and will have in the center of the big club room a set of fire places that will be a novelty. A big stack of stone will have three openings facing three different directions, each a separate fire place.

In the vicinity of the club house a nine-hole golf course has been laid off and it is soon to be constructed, and there on the hills above the newly made lake, in full view of the large impounding reservoir of the Southern Pines water plant, and overlooking a vast expanse of territory, Mr. Barber will have a golf course and club house that will be hard to beat any place.

The road leading in from the Midland road is wide and well built, and will serve as an ingress to the new club house, and will also permit the road leading in from the Midland farms as fast as Mr. Barber cares to turn his attention in that direction. It gives an opening to a pleasing bit of country, and brings much of Mr. Barber's big acreage of land into direct touch with the Pinehurst and Knollwood villages.

90,000 horsepower development on the Pigeon River near the Tennessee line. There has been purchased under a 50 year contract a Saluda River development from the Lexington Power Company in South Carolina.

In August, connection will be made with the Appalachian Power Company at Danville and at Kingport, Tennessee, with the result that two of the major power systems of the United States will be hooked up in a network of inter-connecting lines from the Great Lakes to Muscle Shoals.

Mr. Tillery traced the history of the public utilities in Raleigh, going back even to the days of the mule cars. He was one of the speakers on a program which was devoted to the electrical business in Raleigh. Wade Gallant and C. P. Andrews were the other speakers, while John V. Strange presented Mr. Tillery, a former member of the club.

A TRIBUTE TO MOTHERS

supposed to be perfect, but they are not. And if they were they would not be very interesting. Nothing but mechanical devices are perfect and they are monotonous and soon get on our nerves. Anything in the making is more interesting than the finished product. A rose in full bloom is about ready to fade, and when a person reaches the limit of his capacity he is about ready to die. A child is interesting because he walks over his mistakes and tries again. And so, none of us should despise the years of growth, and none should become discouraged because perfection seems beyond their reach. If we could be satisfied not to try to cover such a wide territory we might not need to specialize. This is a big old world and when people try to reach outside their bounds they lose their influence, prestige and sympathetic understanding of their own people; and when they do that they become machines and are unrecognized by world-wide interests and uncared for in their own communities.

My mind sidetracked on "Specialists" instead of "Special Days" that I had in mind when starting this article.

Next Sunday is a "special" day set aside for the purpose of honoring mothers. If it had been designated as an extra special it would, perhaps, answer its purpose. But one exclusive day seems poor compensation for the constant mother-love that manifests itself for years and years, every day and hour, and into the lonely watches of the darkest nights and tramps the weary miles of times alone and in the shadows, because she loves her children.

However, some one with good intentions set aside the day especially for mothers. And if I had the gift of tongues and could speak in eloquent terms I would write a fine tribute to mothers. But it would not make them happy.

Mothers are not like most people; the service that real mothers render is prompted by love; and love seeks no reward other than that some one take up the threads where they dropped them and carry on to perfection the great fabric of Life that nothing but love and patience can weave. And so, unable to do the subject justice, I say, only, God bless the Mothers.

JUNIPER LAKE RESORT SOON TO BE OPENED.

On the Pinehurst road to Carthage is an institution that has been growing slowly for a year or so, but it is at present in such a state of completion that next week Juniper Lake bathing resort will be opened to the people. And when the folks get there they will find that the McKenzies and McKeithen have constructed one of the most attractive establishments of its kind in this section. A concrete pool has been built with concrete bottom where women and children in a pool not above three feet deep can find safety, pleasure and comfort in water that is piped from side springs, and kept clean and constantly changing by an intelligent plan for circulation. In the larger pool with a greater depth of water more skilled swimmers find all the depth of water and all the room they want. The big pool is fed by water from a stream that also heads in the hills and is free from contamination.

A bath house is about completed and a club house where eatables are served. An ingenious electric light plant has been installed which generates current from the surplus power of the main pool. The place will be well lighted at night. The location is on the main highway between Pinehurst and Carthage, some three mile from Pinehurst, and gives promise of a good business.

The Carolina Theatres Close With One of the Biggest Comedy Hits of the Season.

As was announced last week, the Pinehurst Theatre will close for the summer on Monday, May 30th and the Southern Pines Theatre will close on Tuesday, May 31st for two weeks, re-opening on Tuesday, June 14th, with the famous stage comedian, Ed. Wynn, in his first picture, "Rubber Heels."

As the closing attraction the management has been exceedingly fortunate in securing the latest and best of the war comedies, "Lost at the Front," featuring those two great comedy stars, Charlie Murray and George Sidney.

"Lost at the Front" is an entirely new type of world war comedy, and it deals with a new locale, the Russo-German front. Among its unusual features is the appearance of the famous Russian women soldiery, "The Battalion of Death," which figures in some of the most fun-provoking scenes. "Lost at the Front" is a riot of hilarious comedy of every kind from slapstick to comedy drama throughout all its rapid sequeness and is acclaimed the fun masterpiece of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Matthews and Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Smith went to Fayetteville on Thursday evening of last week to attend a play, "The Patsy," a Redpath Chautauqua attraction. It is wonderful how much difference there is in the time required for making a trip to Fayetteville now and when our parents were young. The trip down the other evening was made by Spout Springs in an hour and two minutes. Returning, the route by Raeford and Aberdeen was taken and the longer route required an hour and 28 minutes. In the olden days, only one part of the journey was attempted in a day, with the night spent in "Town" or in camp, and the return trip on a new day.

Miss Johnnie Thomas and Floyd Keith, two popular young people of the community, were united in marriage last Thursday evening at the manse, Rev. Mr. Monroe officiating. After a short trip they are now at home in the Beasley Apartment house.

Mrs. Keith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dunk Thomas, and is a very attractive and popular young lady. Mr. Keith is the second youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Keith, and holds a position as bookkeeper for Keith's Garage.
