ing Company's house farther up the street, one of the Lachine houses, the Mrs. Edwin Kelly place, and rents are running from $1,500 up to $2,200, with other transactions in the negotiation stage, some of them at much higher figures. He says he has inquiries almost every day for rooming houses and that he could rent a dozen hotels if he had them. The Mayor is emphatic in his opinion of the influence Pine Needles is already exerting over the whole territory. He insists that from Southern Pines to Pinehurst, and out as far as the Seals road, the whole region is in for an emphatic living in development and building advancement. He cites the experience that followed the building of the Highland Pines Inn. It immediately attracted the attention of so many people that the whole neighborhood was crowded with new comers, and from that day to this a steady overflow of visitors has been hunting accommodations. Mr. Richardson says Pine Needles will give the Sandhills a wide acquaintance with a lot of new people, and the high character of the new hotel will carry such weight that he predicts that the present building will have to be enlarged before long to care for its growing traffic, and that other hotels will be crowded by the influx of the growing multitude that will be brought in by the fame of the new house.

Talk is in the air about some new houses pretty soon around the Pine Needles and the opinion is that the type of house that will arise there will be a desirable one. Considerable discussion of a style of architecture that will be distinctive is heard, the influence of the English style making an impression on those who see it.

Knollwood continues to open up the territory immediately above the Pine Needles, and is changing the appearance of all that portion of the country up to the Carthage road, Stutts and Sledge with their development between Pinehurst and Midland farms are building roads, and getting ready for a winter movement of some of the building sites, which lie so close to Pinehurst that the property will be practically a part of that village before long.

MOORE COUNTY FARM NOTES.

This mixture makes an excellent grade of hay and plenty of it. In a great many places Barley is fast taking the place of oats and in some places is replacing a good bit of the acreage usually planted to corn. This is especially true of Rowan county. Barley stands the severest of weather with very little freezing out while a great many times oats will be entirely killed out.

In practically all cases the smooth head Barley was used. This is quite an advantage in cutting and some advantage in feeding.

Prices this year on Barley have been very reasonable. Usually ranging around $1.25 to $1.50 per bushel. If you are interested in trying a few bushels this year I shall be very glad to get this for you or to put you in touch with parties who have it for sale.

How Farmers Can Go Broke.

1. Grow only one crop.
2. Keep no livestock.
3. Regard chickens and gardens as nuisance.
4. Take everything from the soil and return nothing.
5. Don't stop gullies or grow cover crops—let the top soil wash away.
6. Don't plan farm operations. It is hard work thing—trust to luck.
7. Hold fast to the idea that the methods of farming employed by your grandfather are good enough for you.

8. Be independent—don't join with your neighbors in any form of co-operation.

9. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand to buy things you would have cash to pay for if you follow a good system of farming.

Mrs. Julia Parish after a number of years of lingering illness, passed away at her home here Sunday evening at the advanced age of 84 years. She had lived the greater part of her long and useful life among the Sandhill section. Her husband, who was a Confederate soldier, died about 30 years ago. She lived with her children since that time. She was laid to rest on Monday afternoon at Buffalo Church, near Sanford. Quite a number of friends followed her to her last resting place. The floral offerings were beautiful. Rev. Aylmore, of this place, conducted the funeral services.
