

GRAINS OF SAND.

We passed a car the other day with a Hoover plate in front and a Smith plate in the rear. Hubby probably for one and wifey for the other, but what's been troubling us is trying to decide whether Herbert or Al has the better position for his adv. Herb gets 'em coming and Al gets 'em going. Herb, the Republicans claim, is bound to get there first, while the Democrats say, "Don't be too sure. There may be a reversal."

W. D. Ferguson has a sign on his shop at Southern Pines which reads: "Wheelwright-Blacksmith." A modern wife asked her husband the other day to have something needing repairing to "Mr. Wheelwright, the blacksmith."

Montesanti came home from Michigan wearing a Smith button. He had not noticed that it was upside down, and it took some explanation to find out whether Monte figured that Smith would land that way in November, or if an accident had occurred when the button had been put on. The mystery is still unsolved.

Last Friday morning Howard Butler ran up from Southern Pines in his new Ford gaswagon, and gathered in John McQueen at Lakeview. They had dinner at Richmond, and after transacting some business at the Virginia capital they sauntered back home at night, McQueen to Lakeview and Butler to his father's house near Southern Pines. Saturday morning they went up to the mines as usual. Nearly 500 miles to get to work and back, and doing the work between times is a fair sprint for one day.

Since Colin Spencer commenced to load stone from his quarries up on the river he has shipped something like 50 cars to people in the county and further away. Slowly the excellent Moore County building stone is attracting attention. The use of it on the McKinney house in Southern Pines is the most outstanding exhibit of the summer's new work.

The cotton gin at Vass is opening for what looks like a big business. The cotton crop of the State promises to be about as big as was ever harvested, which means that the gins will do a good business. And the gin at Vass, founded on a reputation for square dealing, maintains that reputation that A. Cameron gave it, and from now until the holidays it will be an active spot on the Moore County horizon.

Dr. Mudgett is back in Southern Pines from a 4,100-mile vacation trip to Canada and other points North. In that distance the tires required no attention in the entire journey.

Two men driving along the Midland road the other day saw a ground hog cross the road and disappear in the woods. As the ground hog is unusually rare in this section at any time it is inferred that this boy has come down to look over the erratic conditions of the weather.

SOUTHERN PINES FIRM APPOINTED REPRESENTATIVE

Gregory and Bushby, Inc., of Southern Pines, are taking just pride in their appointment as Frigidaire representatives in this section of the State.

"We regard it as an unusual privilege to represent Frigidaire Corporation in this territory," Mr. Bushby said yesterday. "This organization is a pioneer in automatic refrigeration and is the outstanding leader in the industry, with more installations to its credit than all other manufacturers combined."

"Being soundly based upon a fundamental need, automatic refrigeration is destined to play an ever increasing part in moulding the customs and habits of the race," he said. "By affording low and constant temperatures, not only in the kitchen but in many types of business establishments, the automatic refrigerator directly affects the public well being to a surprising extent."

The Frigidaire Corporation, a part of the General Motors family, has the largest factory in the world devoted to the manufacture of automatic refrigeration equipment.

PINEBLUFF

Members of the Baptist church will be pleased to know that the new church bell has been installed and is now in service.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Roche, of New York City, arrived in Pinebluff last Sunday. Many will remember Mr. Roche, as he was a guest of Miss Pauline Little last winter, residing at her cottage, Over the Way.

Mrs. Sadie Fiddner, of Danbury, Conn., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Aubrey Pruitt, of Columbia, S. C., is now visiting her son, John Fiddner, of Silver Springs.

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Rosie last Saturday evening, September 15th.

Miss Alice Wilkes of Wagram, N. C., is visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Fiddner, of Silver Springs.

Knollwood Heights Planning for Fall

A year ago the plows and the grub hoes and the clearing forces and the road and water lines crews were the sole sign of creation at work at Knollwood Heights.

Then in October commenced the first movement of building sites to the hands of buyers. With the year not yet ended 97 building sites have been bought, and today a group of almost a dozen fine structures are built or building on the north side of Midland road and west of the Pine Needles fairways.

That is a record without a parallel. When with this it included the Pine Needles and all that it comprises the whole thing is marvelous.

But it looks now as if the year that will begin with the first of November is to surpass the one that ends then. In the first place the coming year sees several buyers with house plans under contemplation, while last year at this time not even a lot-buyer contemplated buying a lot.

Then many persons are looking over Knollwood Heights now as a place of investment or home-making when a year ago no one had thought of such a thing.

vestment or home-making when a year ago no one had thought of such a thing.

Now the roads are built, the water lines and sewers down, the community is established, the golf courses are finished, the double Midland road is almost finished, and Knollwood Heights is a distinctive going concern as against a project then.

And now a lot of strong capital is backing the Knollwood development. Some of the leading men and women of the country are investors there and will be home owners.

KNOLLWOOD A YEAR AGO WAS A PLAN TODAY IT IS AN ACCOMPLISHMENT.

Today it is the nucleus of one of the big things of Central North Carolina.

Knollwood Started a Year Ago with a Map.

It starts its second year as the ideal heart of the Sandhills.

You will want to be in on this opportunity. See—
