

Governor Asks Observance of Armistice Day.

Says Day Should Be Day of Serious Rejoicing and Introspection.

DATE NOVEMBER ELEVEN.

To the People of North Carolina:

Ten years ago a broken world laid aside the implements of war and turned its face toward peace. The signing of the Armistice on November 11, 1918, followed the most sanguinary struggle in the history of the human race. For four years Europe had been bathed in blood. While the actual fighting was confined for the most part to that continent, the effects of that struggle were felt throughout the realm of civilization. It was a world experience.

America's participation in the fight for supremacy, waged between autocracy and democracy, undoubtedly hastened its conclusion. We called the result a victory. From a material standpoint it was; but unless the spiritual ideals of those whose souls were dedicated to the cause of world peace shall prevail, the millions who perished in Europe died in vain.

With the Great War a decade behind us, we are confronted today with our peace-time problems. The hardships and privations of war should have taught us self-mastery.

If there remains among us a spirit of antagonism toward those who hold the diversified viewpoints that must always exist among a free people; if the spirit of brotherhood has not been promoted to a point where we can disagree and, at the same time, exercise a spirit of tolerance; if individual differences of opinion are to bring about internal strife and conflict, then selfishness is the shrine at which we worship and the blood that was spilled in behalf of universal liberty and freedom of thought has lost its spiritual significance.

Composite humanity comprised the armies that marched forth on the battlefields of Europe. Men of all nationalities, of all creeds, fought and died shoulder and shoulder. Differences of personal opinion faded into insignificance. In that great melting-pot, humanity refined its gold and discarded its dross. One purpose dominated the hearts of those who presented themselves living sacrifices to democracy and universal brotherhood.

It again becomes my duty, under the law, to issue my proclamation giving official recognition to the eleventh day of November. But this is more than a duty. It is a sacred privilege. As we approach this tenth anniversary of that significant event which took place in the fall of 1918, I urge our people to give serious consideration to what the day really means and to prepare their hearts for a fitting observance. To do this, we must banish from our minds all malice; we must forget our differences, remembering that those who left the shores of America to do battle for democracy knew no creed but patriotism; that they were all moved by the same sublime motives.

Armistice Day this year falls on the Sabbath. Hence, its observance must be conducted in a dignified manner and for the most part in houses of worship. Secular and military celebrations will follow on Monday.

Where it is consistent with their order of service, I respectfully urge the ministers of the various churches to make such reference to Armistice Day as they may deem proper and that they request the congregations committed to their charge to observe a period of silence, from 11 o'clock until two minutes past eleven. This should in no way interfere with any service but will constitute a splendid preface to regular worship. This period of silence should be spent in prayer and meditation; prayer for those in whose hearts the wounds of war have not yet healed, and meditation on the grave problems which confront this Christian nation today.

Armistice Day should not be a day of mourning but one of rejoicing; not a day of boasting but of introspection. We should search our hearts, weigh our motives, and seek to banish from our lives those unwholesome traits which tend to make good citizenship. If we do this, we will emerge better equipped to serve humanity and fight the battles of peace with clean hands and pure hearts.

Done in the City of Raleigh, this the 1st day of November, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, and in the one hundred and fifty-second year of our American independence.

ANGUS W. McLEAN,
Governor of North Carolina.

On Knollwood Heights Big Winter Ahead

Everything takes a holiday during election week.

But now that election is over it is worth while to cast an eye at Knollwood. The first year of the development of the Heights has been the most remarkable movement this section has ever seen.

With the momentum that has been given by the closing year of work there, and the start which has been gained, it is fascinating to guess what will be the record that is now starting for the second year.

Many new owners are now taking a hand in improving and building, and developing and beautifying their property.

A year ago Knollwood, Incorporated, was the sole agency in the task of bringing the ridge to its greatest possibilities.

Now nearly a dozen home-owners are spending money and effort to create establishments that will add to the settlement, and one quick trip through the tract will show the surprising results.

Knollwood Heights in the closing year has recruited to its army of progressiveness the owners of 107 building sites, and of all the houses that have been built in that period or are building or projected.

That is a right powerful army.

All these influences will be working for every new buyer who joins the Knollwood Heights Colony.

Make Your Money Work for You---

The reason some people seem so prosperous under all conditions is often because they have money at work for them. They have saved a reasonable portion of their earnings and placed it in the bank on interest. They are then assured of a certain definite income every year.

You have to work for your money. Then make your money work for you. Two dollars per week placed in a savings account every year for ten years will amount with interest to over $1,300.00. Can you not save two dollars per week?

We pay 4 per cent interest and compound the interest quarterly. We would be pleased to have you open an account with us.
