Lon Chaney Coming to The Carolinas

"Baby Cyclone" This Week Will Be Followed by Film Favorite Next.

"The Baby Cyclone," the farce comedy of married life, which, as a play ran on Broadway half a year, comes to the Carolina Theatres today and tomorrow. The picture, made from the stage production of George M. Cohan, is a comedy romance in which a Pekingese pup breaks up two romances, precipitates a riot that calls in the police, and takes the place of a human villain in two love triangles. A pretty love story runs through the series of hilarious complications. Lew Cody and Aileen Pringle play a clubman and his fiancée, and Robert Armstrong and Gwen Lee a man and wife separated by the pensive pup. Its old story of "love me, love my dog," and offers many laughs.

On Monday and Tuesday, the screen's most popular favorite, Lon Chaney, known as the star with a thousand faces, will appear in his newest thriller, "West of Zanzibar," in which he will be supported by two other famous stars, Lionel Barrymore and Mary Nolan.

Wednesday and Thursday brings another Sandhill favorite to the screen. Adolphe Menjou will be seen in his newest comedy-romance, "His Private Life." Menjou's return to the screen after a well earned vacation in Europe, which incidentally marked the marriage of the star to his leading lady, Kathryn Carver, is celebrated by Paramount by giving film fans two hours of solid, pleasing entertainment. The story is from the pen of Ernest Vajda and Keene Thompson, well-known playwrights, who have provided previous Menjou material. They have written a story that gives Menjou every opportunity for admirable characterization of the type that fans delight in seeing him in.

Matinees will be given at Southern Pines of each of the above pictures at 3 p. m. at bargain prices. Adults 40 cents, and children 20 cents.

NEW ANTIQUE SHOP OPENS IN PINEHURST.

Mrs. N. S. Hurd and Mrs. L. L. Biddle 2d yesterday opened their antique shop in the home of Mrs. Hurd near the village chapel in Pinehurst, large numbers dropping in to look over their collection of authentic North Carolina pieces which Mrs. Hurd and Mrs. Biddle have been collecting for some time. This shop is expected to be one of the dropping in places in Pinehurst during the winter season, and judging from the first day's business the young ladies whose enterprise has started the innovation are going to have a busy and successful winter.

JOHN FITZGERALD ARRIVES.

John Fitzgerald, manager of the Mid-Pines Country Club, has arrived in the Sandhills and will soon have the club in readiness for opening for the winter season. It is said that the club will open around December 1st, with reservations which assure one of its best seasons.

SIMOND'S STORE OPENS.

B. J. Simonds has opened his store on Broad street in Southern Pines where he will specialize in fruit, fresh vegetables and sea food during the winter season.

RAISE FUNDS TO ORGANIZE AIRPORT CO.

Corporation to Take Over and Operate Knollwood Flying Field Proposed.

FIELD NOW IN USE.

Efforts are being made by those responsible for the laying out of the new airport on Knollwood Heights to form a corporation for the taking over and operation of the flying field in the near future.

It has been the intention of those whose efforts have brought the field to its present point of excellence to make the airport a joint field for Pinehurst and Southern Pines, probably to be known as the Pinehurst-Southern Pines Airport, but it is understood that to date practically all work on the field has been done by the Pinehurst Corporation, and that sufficient effort has not been put forward to organize a controlling company of business men of the two towns to take over the management and operation.

One Subscribes $500.

Last week petitions were circulated in Southern Pines looking toward the enlisting of financial aid for Southern Pines' share of the cost and upkeep, and it is known that one interested resident subscribed $500 and that others evinced interest in making subscriptions, and the committee in charge hopes that a large number may soon be enrolled as stockholders and the proposed corporation become a reality. The field at present is something of a fatherless child, despite the fact that everyone recognizes its value to the community as a whole. It is only a question of time when an airport will be a vital factor in the upbuilding and growth of any community, with the passenger and express and mail service by air increasing in leaps and bounds.

Field Now in Use.

Parties coming to the Sandhills by air have already started using the new field for landing, and Aviator Yost is taking parties up from there regularly. He states that the field could not be in better condition, and that he does not know of a better landing field in the country, a statement in which he is backed up by numerous representatives of air passenger services who have inspected the Knollwood field.

Workmen were busy last week in further clearing the land surrounding the field, removing and trimming the higher trees to make landing and taking off safer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASS'N. ELECTS WOOLEY PRESIDENT.

The Sunday School Association of McNeill's Township met in Vass Presbyterian church November 11th, the Rev. D. McD. Monroe offered the invocation.

Miss Blanch Monroe, of West End, gave a very interesting talk on work with the little children of the Sunday School, dwelling chiefly on the Cradle Roll Department.

Garland Pierce, of Southern Pines, held the attention of the audience on organization of young people between the ages of seven and 14.

A. B. Cameron, of Carthage, a life long Sunday School worker, spoke on the importance of adult work in the Sunday School.

W. D. Matthews, of Vass, stressed the great needs of Sunday School work with all ages.

Music was rendered by the Vass-Lakeview High School Chorus.

A large and enthusiastic delegation from various Sunday Schools of the township were present and the following officers were elected for the coming year: President, L. L. Wooley, Lakeview; vice president, W. H. Keith, Vass; secretary, Mrs. Don J. Blue, Vass; chairman Young Peoples division, Garland Pierce, Southern Pines.

Roy Pushee Buys Two More Lots on Knollwood Heights

Purchases Property Released When Mrs. Keating Increases Her Holdings.

SALES REACH 109 LOTS.

The interesting deal that S. B. Richardson and Roy Pushee made at Knollwood this week is significant of the meaning of the whole Knollwood movement. Mrs. Keating was one of the first buyers over there. She bought two of the locations not far from the Pine Needles Inn and the No. 18 course, and she expected to build a house there. But later she decided she wanted more ground and for the time postponed the building until she could secure the acreage desired. A few days ago she selected the fine block of four lots near the entrance of Grove Drive, and having found what she wanted she arranged a trade whereby she conveyed back to Knollwood, Incorporated, the first two lots for two of the new locations, and then by buying the other two in the block she had the four.

This shows the drift of the wind at Knollwood, for it indicates that those shrewd buyers who recognized a good thing at the start have found by the year's experience that it is better now. This is shown further by Roy Pushee, who on finding that Mrs. Keating had given up the first two locations she had bought, immediately arranged with Sam Richardson for the purchase of them. Mr. Pushee had already secured two building sites, one of which he had built a handsome New England type of house, and there he has made a wonderfully attractive home for somebody. He is now the possessor of four locations on Knollwood.

Repeat Orders Numerous.

But prior to this John Bloxham set the fashion of procuring more Knollwood property. He bought the first three lots sold. His intention was to build a house on one of them, but when R. A. Olmstead, who had also bought three lots built a house on one of them, John bought the house and lot, saving his three for future gain, and he already has had opportunities to sell at a substantial profit. But he has held on. Mr. Olmstead built a second house, and then things looked so satisfactory that he bought three more locations, and is arranging for still another house, to be started as soon as the contractor can get to it. Dr. McKee had a similar experience. He bought a site for a house, but before he held it very long another buyer became interested in the site, and it was sold. But the doctor did not stay long out of Knollwood and he bought another location close by. And so it goes. The owners of the Knollwood Heights locations are not offering their holdings for sale. They are waiting to build homes for themselves, or to reap the harvest that is plainly seen to be ahead, and which the recent transactions point to more emphatically than any other sign. Knollwood is a place where homes are to be made, and the forceful swing that this fall is giving to the movement leaves no doubt of what is in store over that way in the next few months.

Youths Admit Thefts In Southern Pines

Two Arrested After Series of Entries Into Stores and Homes.

George Herring and Philip Van Truren, two Southern Pines youths, were arrested Wednesday by Officers Kelly and Beasley of Southern Pines as the result of their investigations into recent local burglaries. The young men, both about 19 years of age, are said by the officers to have confessed entering Lillie's store, Beck's filling station, Ferguson's blacksmith shop, the Sandhill garage, A. R. Wolfe's residence, Miss Watson's residence, the Ford Motor Company plant at Aberdeen, a house on the property of James and Jackson Boyd and other places.

Charges of housebreaking were preferred against Herring and Van Truren and they were released on bail for a hearing next Wednesday at 9 a. m. in Justice Daniel's office in Southern Pines. Among the articles alleged to have been stolen by the young men were a $200 radio set, $200 worth of Ford parts, cigarettes, groceries, tires and tubes, electric drill and other merchandise, some of which the police have recovered, and some of which is said to have been destroyed.

YUM-YUM! OYSTER STEW.

There will be a box supper and oyster stew given at Springfield School house this evening, November 16th, to which the public is invited.

Oscar Bergendahl, of Erwin, Tenn., is visiting his parents here, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bergendahl. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Maples spent the week end in Wilmington. Mrs. E. E. Benas, of Fayetteville, was a visitor in town Tuesday.

ATTRACTIVE NEW WING FOR WOMAN'S EXCHANGE.

Work is progressing rapidly on the attractive addition which the Woman's Exchange at Pinehurst is adding to its log cabin in "Central Park." The new wing is being constructed after the same general plan as the rest of the little one-story hut, and when completed will soon look as old as the rest of the house from which the Exchange has been distributing the handiwork of the women of this section for several years.
