

Carthage School Opens With 600 Enrollment

Parents and Pupils Hear New Superintendent at Exercises on Monday

The Carthage Schools opened Monday morning with a record enrollment. A large number of pupils, parents, school officials and teachers assembled in the high school auditorium for the opening exercises. The Rev. L. A. Watts conducted the devotional exercises, and H. Lee Thomas, County Superintendent of schools, was the principal speaker. Mr. Thomas urged the students to cooperate in every way with their instructors. He suggested a number of ways for a pupil to be successful.

The new school superintendent, Blair Beasley, made a short address commending the Carthage people for their hospitality and encouraging the support of the school by both pupils and parents. Mr. Beasley said that pupils are judged by three things: their attitude, character, and eagerness to learn. Other short talks were made by Mrs. H. F. Seawell, Mrs. Eldon Adams and Edgar Alexander, new principal of the elementary school. The enrollment in the elementary school was 433 and in the high school 167, making a total enrollment of 600. Mr. Beasley stated that an enrollment of 700 is expected during the month.
