NOTICE

The public's attention is called to the dumping and leaving of yard rakings and trash on the parkways and streets of the town. This is in strict violation of the Town Ordinance which is going to be rigidly enforced.

Town trucks will collect garbage and kitchen waste only from containers on each Tuesday and Saturday morning until further notice. It will be impossible for the Town to remove yard rakings from any of the streets. The garbage should be placed in containers on the parkway the night before as the town trucks will not call for garbage after they have made their regular round.

The earnest cooperation of the public in helping keep the streets clean is requested.

Ladies' Parlor Social An Enjoyable Success

Miss Sanborn Reads, Quartet Sings and Actors Present Play at Wide Fellowship

The plans for the Ladies' Parlor Social to be held at the Church of Wide Fellowship were successfully carried out last Tuesday evening. About 75 people gathered in the Assembly room where the program began with a reading of one of her own stories by Miss Ruth Burr Sanborn. The story, "Phemus Shea and the Wishing Carpet," depicting the history of the wholesale and retail purchase of a "stairs carpet," was exciting as well as amusing. The next feature of the program was the singing of two songs by a quartet composed of Miss Katherine Buchan, Mrs. L. D. McDonald, Wilbur P. Whitlock and Dr. R. P. Shepard. The short play entitled, "They Made An Impression" concluded the program. The cast of the play included Mrs. Lillian Miles, Miss Blanche E. Sherman, Mrs. Wilma Norton, Miss Edith Smith, Miss Rebecca Cameron and Mrs. Pauline Garlick.

Following the early portion of the evening the guests entered the newly decorated Ladies' Parlor. The receiving line comprising Voight O. Taylor, Mrs. Margaret White, Mrs. Charles M. Grey and the entire Reliance Club, ended at the refreshment table, where everyone enjoyed punch and cookies.

Your Library

Fourth of a Series of Five Articles on Purposes and Functions of Institution

By Katherine Martin.

The weeding process, of which we have already told you something, will be carried through in the children's collection as well as in the adult collection. There is a very fine collection of children's books which we can use as a basis to build upon. We are going to try to make the children's room more attractive and the books more accessible.

Of course, we do not expect our children's department to be used as much as the collections in the school here. We do not wish to compete with them, but to supplement them. However, we do expect our own collection to improve greatly this year. Then we hope to work together with the school libraries in supplying the reading interests of the young people in the community.

As soon as arrangements can be made about space, supplies, etc., we hope to be able to start a series of lively displays which will interest the young people and quicken their reading interests. Later on, we also hope to start a series of story hours. Lastly, the librarian is very interested in getting "the right book for the right child" and will be glad to help both children and parents in the problem of book selection for young people.

Just a word about another service of the library. We have not yet been able to make our budget stretch to include the purchase of periodicals and newspapers. We find that we have a fine, though small, collection of these, however, contributed by very kind members. We can usually count on the following during the busiest months: "Town and Country," "Vogue," "National Geographic," "The Sportsman," "Harpers," "Consumers' Digest," "Horse and Horseman," "Pinehurst Outlook," "The Atlantic," "Present Truth Messenger," "Maclean's," "The New Church Messenger," "Reader's Digest," "The New Yorker."

Don't forget our aim—to render efficient service and to supply your reading need:

Pinehurst Paragraphs
