SOUTHERN PINES MARCHES ON

Southern Pines made a considerable step forward this week. Its approval of the purchase of downtown property on which will be erected a new library building, and possibly at some later date a municipal office building, is in keeping with the planned progress of the town along the lines which have made it the distinctive community it is.

We are distinctive because we are not one of the run-of-the-mill towns one passes when touring about the country. We have something different to offer: beauty in planting, well laid out and well kept streets, attractive stores, modern street lighting, a landscaped business center, an outstanding postoffice building, residences of distinctive architecture. There is nothing shoddy about Southern Pines, in contradistinction to so many villages of its size. We don't look down-at-the-heel.

Now we will add to all this a library building in keeping with these distinctions, something that will be an asset architecturally and usefully. It will be surrounded by a park giving us another central beauty spot. And best of all, it will forestall the encroachment upon land adjoining the postoffice property of business structures that might rise in the course of time to despoil our very fine government building.

The Pilot believes the acquisition of this property, for the purposes designed, enhances the value of all downtown property in Southern Pines.

A SERIOUS INDICTMENT

An advertisement in a recent issue of The Pilot brings to the electorate of Moore county the information that a candidate for the State Legislature "has not paid any tax to Moore county in over seventeen years."

This is a serious indictment against a candidate for any public office. It is particularly serious against one seeking public support as representative of his county in the State legislative body which has so much to do with taxation. We are asked to have represent us at Raleigh one who is not representative of our citizenry, for we look upon ourselves as good citizens. A good citizen pays his taxes, aids in the support of the community which gives him his home and his livelihood.

It does not seem to The Pilot that this is a party issue in this campaign. The Pilot, a non-partisan, independent newspaper, must appeal for support for the man offering himself for public office who it deems best qualified and most deserving of support. It does not believe that in this case there are any two sides to the question. Democrat or Republican, our representative in the State Legislature should be representative of the people of his county.

THE REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CONGRESS

The squabble in this Congressional district over the Democratic nominee for Representative may result, many believe, in North Carolina sending at least one Republican to the House in the coming election. Much hard feeling has been engendered by the Burgin-Deane dispute, and scars left which may not heal before November 8th.

In view of this fact the people want to know more about Mr. Jones, the G. O. P. candidate

OCTOBER

October we bid you goodbye,
When the nights grow cold;
You give us happy moments
Like treasures of purest gold.
We drink your precious wine,
Inhale your perfumed air;
We revel in each bright flower,
So dainty, pure and rare.
And when you must go
We are sorry,
And bid you a sad adieu;
And the crown for the choicest month,
We bestow, October, on you.

Robert E. Harlow and Louis Koch "checked in" at Pinehurst during the past week. Mr. Harlow and Mr. Koch, comprising Pinehurst's publicity staff, have opened an office in the Pinehurst Department Store building where typewriters have already begun to click in preparation of stories of the first event on the sports calendar, the 18th annual Mid-South Professional golf tournament on November 15, 16, 17 and 18.

We're indebted to D. C. Phillips of Southern Pines for this story:

Frank W. Webster, superintendent of Southern Pines schools, received the following note after writing to a mother about a refractory pupil:

"Dear Mr. Webster—yu writ me about whippin my i hereby gives you permission to lick him any time it s necessary to larn hm his lessuns hes jst like his paw you have to lern him with a club please pound knowlej into him i want him to git it don't pay no atenshun to his paw ill handle him."

Mr. Webster, we are informed, is who made a fine impression on his listeners at a Republican rally in Carthage last Friday night.

Mr. Jones, age 56, native of Stokes county, worked his way through high school and college, studied law at Wake Forest, married Miss Rose McNeill, daughter of the Rev. Milton McNeill, Wilkes county. Mr. Jones located in North Wilkesboro in 1910, forming a partnership with Johnson J. Hayes, who is now federal judge of the middle district of North Carolina. Jones and Judge Hayes were law partners for 17 years. In 1926 Jones was elected solicitor of the 17th Judicial district, which office he held for 12 years. Mr. Jones holds the distinction of being the only Republican solicitor in the state, and so well liked in his district that at the last general election he had no opposition.

Mr. Jones lives in a "log cabin home" on his dairy farm about six miles out of North Wilkesboro. He is known throughout the state as a dairy farmer and is proprietor of the famous "Meadow Brooks Dairy," one of the outstanding grade A dairies in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Jones had no children of their own, but they have been father and mother to and educated eleven children. Mrs. Jones has just recently died.

not planning to act on the "permission" granted him.

The Pathe Sports picture which had its locale in Pinehurst where it was shot last winter has been shown in more than 4,000 theatres.
