Other relatives from Vass who have visited Mrs. Lassiter include Mr. and Mrs. Wade Smith, Harvey and Mollie Smith, Hume Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Mashburn, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Scott, Mrs. Grover Mashburn and Mrs. Luther Ford.

Mack Monroe is now in college and the younger boy, Jeff, who was born while Mr. Monroe was pastor of the local Presbyterian church, is twelve years of age.

The Vass-Lakeview school is now getting out a daily news sheet, which is of much interest to the student body and friends of the school. In addition to spicy bits of news written by children from the various grades, the sheet carries the weather report and the lunch room menu for the following day. The sheet is mimeographed in the school office.

Observation day will be observed in Vass-Lakeview school on Friday of next week, January 19, and approximately 125 teachers of Moore county are expected to visit the school and observe the classroom work of the grades in which they are most interested. Luncheon will be under the sponsorship of the senior class.

Vass-Lakeview and Carthage divided a double header in the Carthage gymnasium Tuesday night. The local girls defeated Carthage by a score of 26 to 6 and the Vass-Lakeview boys lost to the tune of 10-20.
