Interesting Program For Poultry Raisers, in Carthage on Monday

Leaders in Field To Discuss Important Phases of Egg Production

By Flora McDonald, Home Agent

The Poultry Short Course to be held in Carthage on Monday, February 19th, will have questions such as the following discussed: "Why does one flock of layers with a good house and good feeding produce an average of a hundred eggs a bird, and another fed the same feed and identical housing conditions produce an average of over two hundred eggs a bird?" Dr. C. H. Bostian.

Professor Dearstyne will endeavor to answer "What Shall I Feed My Birds," "Why," "When," "How Much," and "How does a sanitation program aid in controlling of diseases?" He will endeavor to answer that old familiar question—"Why birds are sick and what to do for them."

The following program is interesting and educational.

9:45-10:20—"Utilizing Our Flocks and Equipment More Fully", C. F. Parrish.

10:20-10:55—"A Breeding Program for all Piedmont North Carolina Farmers," Dr. C. H. Bostian.

10:55-11:30—"Better Feeding and Sanitation as an aid in Controlling Diseases," Dr. R. S. Dearstyne.

11:35-12:05, "Modern Methods of Marketing Poultry Products," T. T. Brown.

12:05-1:15—Recess for Lunch.

1:15-1:45 Showing Film Strip, C. F. Parrish.

1:45-2:45 Round Table Discussion, led by Staff.

2:45-3:30, "Autopsying Diseased Birds," Dr. Dearstyne Demonstration in Grading and Packing Eggs, T. T. Brown, Exhibits and Models, Dr. C. H. Bostian and C. F. Parrish.

In addition to the program there will be an egg show, and we want every poultry grower to bring a dozen eggs to enter in the show.

T. T. BROWN

T. T. Brown of the Extension Service State College will discuss "Modern Methods of Marketing Poultry Products," at the Poultry Short Course in Carthage Monday. He will show how to determine whether an egg is old or fresh, distinguish between stale and fresh eggs, and teach the farm women how they can determine the interior quality of an egg without breaking it, or "Is our egg an egg?"

Eggs are so poorly packaged and presented in Piedmont, North Carolina that they are commanding a much lower price than they should, the people could get at least five cents more per dozen for the top grade of eggs and two or three cents more per pound for the poultry. That one thing in itself would mean the saving of several thousands of dollars for Moore county alone.

Eggs (24 to 26 ounces): 1. Fertiliz. Eggs. (26 to 28 ounces); prizes, 1, Fertilizer; 2, 25 lb. Startina; 3, Cook Book.

3. Best Dozen Extra Brown Eggs. (26 to 28 ounces); prizes, 1, 25 New Hampshire, 2, Feed Hopper, 3, Cook Book.

4. Best Dozen Standard Brown Eggs. (26 to 28 ounces); prizes 1, Chicken Feed, 2, 25 pounds Starting Feed, 3, Cook Book.

Every farm woman, girl, man, and boy should attend this short course.
