THE HOLLY INN

PINEHURST, N. C.

Is Open For Its 47th Season

At Fort Bragg and other military establishments in the Carolinas, electric power is playing an important part in the nation's Preparedness efforts.

Factories in the territory served by the Carolina Power & Light Company are working night and day, many on indispensable National Defense materials, and, with the aid of electric power, are contributing much to the nation's needs during this period of emergency.

Because of the fact that the Carolina Power & Light Company has always planned far in advance of actual demands, the greatly increased requirements for electric power within its territory have been met . . . and electric power has actually been sent on its way to work in defense industries located outside its territory.

Another large electric generating plant is now under construction and new transmission lines are being built to carry to work more power to our customers and Uncle Sam.
