Tuberculosis Film Is Shown in County

Vass-Lakeview School One of Groups to See Picture About Combating Disease

The Vass-Lakeview school was one of nine groups in the county that had the privilege of seeing interesting and instructive moving pictures provided by the North Carolina Tuberculosis Association and shown in Moore County on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week by Walter Page of Winston-Salem.

It was in recognition of the splendid work done in Moore County in past Christmas Seal Sales under the direction of Mrs. T. A. Cheatham of Pinehurst that Mr. Page was assigned to the county for two full days, and the pictures have done much to acquaint the children with the workings of tuberculosis and methods of combatting it, and to inspire them to make this year's seal sale the best yet.
