

Social Agencies' Summer Plans For Youth Get Started

Dawson Organizes Variety Of Sports For All Young People

The Southern Pines Council of Social Agencies, sponsoring the summer physical education and recreational program here, will have a broad program covering all ages according to A. C. Dawson, director.

The Civic Club building and the park will be the center and control point of the activities. Tennis, volleyball, and shuffle board will be played in the park, and ping pong and other games in the club building. A softball league will be organized, and games played on regular schedule, tennis also. Basketball will be played in the school auditorium and the Church of Wide Fellowship Sunday School Assembly room.

For those that prefer swimming that sport will be under the direction of Mr. Dawson and under the supervision of persons qualified to teach and instruct in swimming, diving, and all water sports.

Two dances for the teen-agers will be held weekly, these, of course, being under strict chaperonage.

Morris Johnson, president of the Council of Social Agencies states that he believes the program should prove a real success in meeting the problem of the idle summer vacation days.

"In securing Dawson as director of the activity," Johnson said, "we are very fortunate. He possesses the qualities that inspire confidence among the kids. He is a leader, and combines with this the ability to teach well all kinds of outdoors and indoor games. From the angle of leadership, we are certain that our program will be more than successful."

June Phillips, treasurer of the social agencies, said that two thirds of the money budgeted for the summer activities had been raised. The Citizens Committee, local group of business men sponsoring the summer's plans report their pledged amount of $750.00 already raised.

Troy Wins 7-5 Over Local Team

Southern Pines playing spiritless ball throughout the game lost to Troy 7 to 5 Wednesday afternoon at the home field. Only in the fifth inning did Southern Pines show any fight when they scored four runs and tied the score at 5 all. Brown, the winning pitcher, was in trouble twice during the game but alert fielding pulled him out of the hole. Cooper, pitching for Southern Pines, had things pretty well under control all the way, but the faulty ball handling of his mates and sleeping on the bases caused the locals to drop the game.

UP TO US

The following message is from President Truman: 'Millions of people face famine in the war-torn world. I call upon every American to help save lives. Eat less wheat products, fats and oils, balance your diet with foods which are plentiful, keep up your victory garden, preserve food at home and waste no food. Famine and peace cannot go together. It is up to all of us to see that food saves lives and strengthens peace everywhere in the world.'

Aberdeen Scouts Do Excellent Job Collecting Food

The Boy Scouts of Aberdeen have done a fine job under scout leader W. McNeill, Jr., and Jere McKeithen, member of AVC, the veterans organization that voted to get behind the nation's Emergency Food Drive and push it in the Sandhills.

The food collected last Saturday has been turned over to Miss Flora McDonald who in turn has turned it over to the UNRRA and it is now on its way to help ease the situation in some nation where starvation is now rampant.

Over two hundred and sixty cans of food were collected by the Boy Scouts last Saturday, in Aberdeen, an estimated 250 pounds of canned soups, evaporated milk, fish and other badly needed items.

The Boy Scouts who gave of their time and effort that others in far off starving nations might eat and live were: Raymond Wicker, Jr. Buddy Blue, Farrell Brown, Louis Harrington, and Donald Jackson.

Cars were furnished by Hariton Storey, Jr. and by Mrs. A. Jackson Smith and Mrs. Donald McCoy of the Presbyterian Ladies Aid Society.

Cans of food will again be collected this coming Saturday in Aberdeen as well as in other sections of Moore County. It is asked of all housewives that if they do not expect to be home between nine and twelve in the morning, then leave a can of food on the doorstep so that it can be collected and sent on its way to nations less fortunate than our own.

Rotary To Sponsor Boy Scout Troop

Friday's regular luncheon of the Rotary Club was held at the Lakeview Hotel, Lakeview. At this meeting the Club unanimously voted to take over the sponsorship of local troop No. 73, Boy Scouts of America. Troop No. 73 was about to lose its charter because its original sponsor, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, now combined with the new senior Chamber of Commerce, had to relinquish its sponsorship.

A Scout Troop Committee was named consisting of Dan Ray, Will Wiggs, Morris Johnson, Tucker Humphries, and June Phillips, the latter, chairman.

Visiting Rotarians were Wilbur Currie, Carthage, and Frank Thomas of Hastings on-the-Hudson, New York.

Guests were Stanley Austin and Clifton Blue of Aberdeen.

Shaw House Fund Drive Results To Be Given Tuesday

The meeting of the Moore County Historical Association, to be held Tuesday night, May 28th, at the Library in Southern Pines, at 8 P. M., will be the last meeting before the expiration of the option on the purchase of the Shaw House, and a large attendance is expected. Reports from the various committees in charge of the drive for funds are slated to be presented.

At the last meeting, on May 14th, the fund lacked some $1,500.00 of completion but it has been stated that contributions have been coming in since then, and it is fully expected that the response of the recent letter, sent out by Struthers Burt, as head of a special fund-raising committee, will bring the desired amount.

At that May 14th meeting, besides a discussion of finances, the twenty members present were entertained and delighted with two short addresses made by Rastie Wicker and John McQueen. The former described the three main roads of early Moore County, the Yadkin, the Peedee, or Seals, and the Morganton Road, while Mr. McQueen went back into the days of his early boyhood, in memory, and told what Moore County was like then. He described in detail the little school house where he first taught school for the noble salary of $25.00 a month. He closed his talk with the suggestion that just as the heritage of Moore County's stirring past inspires her sons today, so what today's citizens do will inspire those to come, and said "a great responsibility is laid upon us to live that we also will hand on something of worth to our descendants."

The Association announces the receipt of its first gift: an abstract of a deed for six lots in the town of Southern Pines, made by C. W. Shaw, Justice of the Peace, owner of the Shaw House, on Jan. 24, 1902. Presented to the Society by J. Talbot Johnson, a charter member, the abstract will be placed in the archives of the

E. C. Eddy Sells Shop To E. C. Stevens Family Going North, Return Uncertain

"But you're not leaving! Not for good . . . you can't do that!" That was the general cry that greeted the announcement by Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Eddy that they had sold the shop and rented the house, and were packing up. Reassuring replies: that plans were uncertain, that they couldn't say for sure, that they would surely come back, or stop off, or at least be thinking often of the Sandhills did little to lessen the feeling of loss.

The Eddy's acquaintance with Moore county dates back quite a ways, to the fall of 1906, to be exact, when they came to Pinehurst.

On May 21st, 1913, they bought the Goodale Studio, then located in what was called the 'Locey Block,' on the site of the present Eddy Building. In the big fire of April 13th, 1921, the shop was burned out, and Mr. Eddy lost most of his stock of photographic equipment. Nothing daunted by this catastrophe, he built the following year, three small stores on Broad street, where the present Stevens and Hart buildings stand, and, in 1926, he built the structure on Pennsylvania avenue which has just been sold to E. C. Stevens.

Here E. C. Eddy has carried on his photographic business, keeping the window of his shop filled with the smiling faces of eminent town worthies or coy maidens, or, these last years, the fine determined faces of our boys in uniform. He has also had hunt pictures, there, and golf pictures, parades, train wrecks. One of the finest photographs ever taken of a Diesel was the one he took

Country Club Sale Stirs Up Hornets' Nest Of Discussion

Some Feel One Way Some Feel Another All Await Results

When the smoke of too hot thinking clears and the echoes of angry words die away, it will be interesting to see who was right and who was wrong about the Country Club sale.

PEPPER

"I have fought the reactionists—the witting or unwitting champions of the uncommon people—all my life, I shall continue to fight them because I am a Southerner an because what they stand for harms the South I love. I charge that they would rather turn the efforts of the government to the aid of the organized money power of the Nation than to make it possible for the people of my state and the South to get an education, to be healthy, and to make a living like honorable men."

A West Southern Pines Post Office Being Considered

The post office department is considering the establishment of a substation in West Southern Pines, according to latest reports. This post office would be a contract station, with the owner and operator under bond to the Southern Pines post office.

Tag Day Nets $418 For Maternity Aid With More to Come

Results of the Tag Day sale for the work of the Maternal Welfare Committee were most satisfactory, according to word received from the treasurer, Mrs. F. H. Underwood of Carthage. With Carthage not yet reporting the sum raised this year was $418.00. It is confidently expected that the Carthage drive, spread over two or more Saturdays, will bring the final figure well over $450.00. The figure for last year's sale was $308.00.

The five towns taking part in the sale this year were: Southern Pines, which turned in a flat $250.00, Pinehurst, $33.00, Aberdeen, $76.00, and Pinebluff, $59.00, with Carthage still to be heard from.

Because of the saving of funds during the war years, when the burden of maternal care in the county was shared with the federal government, there will be, according to the chairman, Mrs. James Boyd, enough in the treasury with this added Tag Day amount, to finance the coming year's work. The committee has standing expenses to be met, such as the addition we make to Mrs. McLeod's salary, as well as many incidentals." Mrs. Boyd said. "These include clinic equipment and supplies, extra milk or medicine, occasional supplements to doctors' fees. Because of this welcome sum raised through the generosity of Moore County people on Tag Day, we will be able to fulfill all these obligations and, we hope, go on to the enlarged program that is so necessary."

"Teen-Agers" Vote Unanimously To Collect Food For Starving

Some twenty-five members of the Southern Pines "Teen-Agers Club" attended their last business meeting Wednesday night at the Community Center. At this meeting Herman Grover, member of AVC, spoke to the teen-agers on the drive to collect canned food that AVC is conducting in Moore County. He explained that UNRRA has a nation-wide drive now underway to collect food for the starving peoples of foreign nations and that AVC has organized a Sandhill drive to tie in with UNRRA. "I want to ask for volunteers from among you," said Grover, "but I want you to know that if you volunteer, you'll be expected to go out and work on this food drive." Ted Yorke, president of the Teen-Agers, was in favor of the project, Fred Arnette made the motion that the Teen-Agers join AVC in the drive, and Bobby Harrington seconded the motion. All members present voted unanimously, and volunteered to help in any way they could.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church will furnish the transportation and the drive will begin today, Friday May 24th, as soon as the teen-agers get out of school - about 2:30 P. M. The drive will continue on Saturday morning until noon. Any housewives who do not expect to

Women's Groups Out To Save More Food

The Eastern Star group of women have passed a resolution, it was recently announced, to dispense with refreshments at their meetings, as long as the need existed.

Similar action was taken last week by the Business Women's Circle of the Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church.

Such heartening occurrences show that the country is alive to the need, as women are responding everywhere to President Truman's special plea to them, as home-makers, to help in this great emergency.

TEST 'EM, PROF!

A professor of Yale's University Law School, Harold D. Lasswell, urged before 500 members of the Association for the Advancement of Psychoanalysis that psychoanalytical tests be given labor leaders, business executives, and public officials "to test their temperamental fitness for making important decisions." How nice . . . if only it would work . . . what a heap of changes would soon take place!

Under The Sycamores Old Timers Ponder Who's Going To Win Saturday

If you stood out under the sycamores any afternoon this week when it wasn't raining. . . something that's quite a trick these days. . . you soon found yourself in a little group of earnest voters. Round and round went the political talk, about this candidate and that one. Don't think you could ever really find out how anybody was going to vote. . . not to save your neck you couldn't! But if you listened to the statements that floated out into the casual air, after a while you began to get some idea of what folks were thinking. Here, for what it may be worth, is what was simmering in the dusty shade of the sycamores early this week.
