Country Club Sale

largely on Southern Pines permanent residents. To exclude them would be stupid business and that is something in which Mr. Sherman has not yet indulged.

One condition of sale that, it is agreed by all parties, has been fully protected is the provision that no trees on the property shall be cut except to extend the golf course. . . NOT for the purpose of selling lumber.

However, there are some seventy building lots, plus about 500 acres of golf courses. Those who fear the sale has not been put through with enough air-tight provisions say that there is nothing to prevent the new purchaser from subdividing lots and golf courses and turning the whole deal into a real estate venture. In which case Southern Pines would be "took" and great profit indeed would pour into the coffers of the new owner. Say those who favor the sale: Absurd. It was sold as a country and golf club and will remain such.

Say those backing the sale: "Keep your shirts on. Nothing has been done except that a deposit has been made and a receipt for same given. The sale agreements that are to protect Southern Pines' interests have not yet been made. But they will be made before the final papers of ownership are granted."

The backers claim that when such agreements are duly made not one out of a hundred people will find anything at all to complain about. The sale, they claim, is one of the best moves that has been made in Southern Pines in years. It will take out of the hands of amateurs the management of the Southern Pines Country Club and place it right where it belongs—in the hands of those who have proven their ability to run a golf club successfully. And then Southern Pines will enjoy the results of a good club run properly. "Not," hastily add those who say such, "that the Club hasn't been run as well as it has been possible for those now in charge to run it. They've simply not had the backing, nor the power. Now we'll really see something."

That we are all waiting to see. Good luck to those stepping out. Good luck to those stepping in.

"TEEN-AGERS"

Association.
The mystery gift, announced by the Association two weeks ago, was solved this week when word came to J. Talbot Johnson, chairman of the finance committee, that the donor was Mrs. J. L. McKinney, a former resident of Southern Pines, now living in La Grangeville, N. Y. In announcing the gift of one thousand dollars, Johnson said that Mrs. McKinney had always loved the Sandhills where she and her husband lived for many years. She was glad to make this contribution to such a good enterprise.

E. C. Eddy Sells

Opened in 1938, it was an instant success, the only one of its kind in the United States. Skimaster Eddy plans to open her up again this summer, as soon as practicable.

Though certainly excited at the thought of their favorite photographer mixed up in any way with skiing, Southern Pinesers will not be surprised. They know the indefatigable energy of their friend, his ability to make friends, his imagination and perseverance. They heartily wish him and his good wife and daughters all success. "Only," they say. "Come back soon."

Pinehurst Scouts Join Food Drive

The Pinehurst Boy Scouts this Saturday are joining in the drive now being conducted throughout the nation for the collection of food to be given UNRRA. UNRRA will see to it that this food is sent in the fastest possible way to those nations whose people are facing starvation.

At least twelve scouts are to meet at the General Offices in Pinehurst at 9:45 a. m. Saturday, according to William Nugent, member of the American Veterans Committee, the veterans organization that voted at a recent meeting to organize a concerted drive in the Sandhills for the collection of canned food for UNRRA.

Four cars are to be furnished by Mrs. Tom Black and the mothers of the Boy Scouts. Ernest McKenzie, Assistant Scoutmaster in Pinehurst, will be in charge of the Scouts during the drive.

This drive will be from ten to twelve. Any housewives who do not expect to be home Saturday morning are asked to leave a can of food on the doorstep.
