Visitation Evangelism

A visiting evangelism campaign was carried on three nights last week in the Aberdeen, Pinebluff and Vass Methodist churches with several pastors and laymen visiting in homes in the three towns. The group met for supper and an instruction period in Pinebluff Monday evening, in Aberdeen Tuesday, and in Vass Wednesday, with members of the women's societies serving as hostesses. More than fifty persons decided to become followers of Christ, or to move their church membership to their present place of residence.

The Vass Methodist Church will be open for the reception of members at the 11:00 o'clock service on June 2, and a number have signified their intention of joining. One whole family of seven is to be received at that time.

Joins Church Group

Following the Presbyterian church service Sunday night a congregational meeting was held, at which the church decided to join the Cameron-Union group of churches. For some time Vass has been served by a supply.

Vass Team Wins

The Vass Baseball Team defeated Wagram by a score of 5-1 Sunday afternoon, with Cooper pitching and Caddell as catcher for the locals. Crump and Lassiter were the Wagram battery. The Vass boys got eleven hits and their opponents, five.

Undergoes Operation

Henry A. Borst, Jr., who entered Watts Hospital, Durham, on Monday of last week, underwent a major operation on Friday and is getting along well. A Vass boy, Dr. R. G. Rosser, Jr., assisted with the operation.

Back From Japan

After traveling by ship to California, then by plane to Camp Lejeune, Lt. George McDermott, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. M. McDermott, arrived Saturday night from Yokosuka, Japan. In foreign service nine months, George had been in Japan since September. He was impressed with the extreme politeness of the Japanese, and spoke of their surprise that our occupation forces did not treat them as they, themselves, had been treating others. He feels that through the army of occupation the Japanese have gained a much better understanding of the American people.

Low-Cost Vet Home Given Go-Ahead

Building Restrictions Urge Fast Construction

While the Veterans Housing Program places restrictions on the construction of buildings that cost more than $1,000 and on dwellings that cost over $4,000, the purpose of this, points out Joe A. Caddell, Chairman, Moore County AAA Commission, is to get low-cost living units built for veterans as fast as possible.

"Applications for the construction of all farm buildings in County should be filed at the local AAA office," Mr. Caddell said, "and the final approval of the applications rest with the State AAA Committee in Raleigh."

"Data such as materials needed, total cost of all new materials, labor costs, and the necessity for the building will be requested," Mr. Caddell explained. The AAA chairman pointed out that approval of the proposed construction will be based on whether it is essential to increasing or maintaining production of food on the farm; whether present facilities on the farm are being utilized to maximum capacity; and whether the proposed construction will be fully utilized upon completion.

A copy of the approved application will be returned to the applicant accompanied by a placard to be posted on the construction site. In the case of farm dwellings, priority ratings for the purchase of needed materials may also be issued by the State AAA Committee.

The County and State AAA Committee have the final approval of all farm constructions up to $10,000 for a single dwelling; $17,000 for a double family dwelling; and $50,000 for barns and other constructions.

G. T. Scott, Chairman, State AAA Committee, reports that approximately 300 applications have already been received in the State Office and are now being processed as rapidly as possible.
