Honored at Reunion

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. Edd Gschwind of Kansas City, Mo., a large number of relatives gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jeffreys Sunday to enjoy a picnic dinner and a day of fellowship.

Dinner was spread on a table under the trees, and the OPA would doubtless have raised a quizzical brow if it could have seen the bounteous spread of good things . . . including country ham . . . that loaded the table. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Jeffreys, after which the group fell to with such zeal that their enthusiasm was a bit dampened by the time they got to the three gallons of ice cream which the honor guests had thoughtfully provided. Altogether, it was a day that will long be remembered.

Agriculture Building

A two-story agriculture building 40 by 60 feet in size is being constructed on the Vass-Lakeview School campus, with W. E. Gladstone, head of the agriculture department, and his boys doing the greater part of the work. Cinder blocks are being used, and Mr. Gladstone hopes to have the building completed by the first of next year.

Sophomore Class News

On Monday, September 23, we, the tenth grade class of Vass-Lakeview high school, met in our homeroom to elect officers for the year. Miss Thomas, our homeroom teacher, acted as chairman until Ann Fields was elected president. She took over and the others were elected as follows: Gladys Baker, vice president; Maggie McKay, secretary; Ruth Frye, treasurer, and Herminia Causey, reporter. This being decided, we can settle down to what we hope will be a good year of hard work and play.

To start the ball a-rolling, our class is planning to take in the state fair on Friday, October 18, which is students' day, for all the pupils of North Carolina. A truck for transportation is to be generously provided by a member of the class and to solve the food problem we are going to take a picnic supper and eat in the grounds. However, we hope there will be many, many hot-dogs- We are taking with us five chaperons who are friends, parents and some members of the
