Cardy Horses Win At Northern Fairs

The entries of Vernon C. Cardy from Val David, Quebec, and from Vernon Valley Farm, at Southern Pines, North Carolina, were the sensations of the Royal Winter Fair, at Toronto, the biggest winners in ribbons and money and holders of 19 ribbons in main events.

Cardy personally rode his "Times Square" to victory in the green Heavyweight Hunter class to set off a train of wins which included the triple first ribbons for the chestnut grandson of Man O War, Jervis Bay. The latter won the International Cup, the most coveted award in the entire show. He came back to lead his team of chestnuts, including "Goldenrod" from Pinehurst, and "Fort Riley" to second place in the Hunt Team. They were beaten by the Mellons' Rolling Rock Hunt Club team. This is the Club under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wallach. Mrs. Wallach was the former Kate Page, daughter of Mrs. Robert Page, Sr., of Aberdeen. Her husband, a friend of the late Noel Lang, managed the spring hunt meets, here, and rode in several races.

In the jumper classes the Cardy horses won the President's Trophy, the Jumping Stake, captured seconds and thirds in half a dozen events. Their total major ribbons were 19.

"We are hoping to head down south to visit our friends in North and South Carolina" commented Mr. Cardy after the show. "While we enjoy riding and competing in the shows, I don't think that we would particularly care to participate if we could not ride ourselves. We hope to forget all about the stress and bustle of the show world by the middle of January in the Sandhills country."

It is expected that Cardy will bring down ten horses from Val David to Vernon Valley Farm, formerly the Paddock, at Southern Pines sometime early in January.

McCain

West, S. C., June 26, 1884, son of J. I. McCain and Lula Todd McCain. He received his A. B. degree from Erskine College in Due West in 1906, where his father was professor of English for over 50 years. He received his M. D. degree from the University of Maryland in 1911, and received an honorary LL.D. from the University of North Carolina in 1936.

Develops Tuberculosis
Following his graduation from the University of Maryland, Dr. McCain served his internship at Bay View Hospital in Baltimore, Md. It was during this time that he developed tuberculosis and was sent to Gaylord Farm Sanatorium at Wallingford, Conn., where he took treatment and later acted as resident physician, during 1912-13.

On March 1, 1914, he came to the North Carolina Sanatorium as assistant superintendent and chief of the medical service. He continued in this capacity until the resignation of Dr. L. B. McBrayer on January 1, 1924. Dr. McCain then became superintendent and medical director of the North Carolina Sanatorium and director of the Extension Department of the North Carolina Sanatorium.

With the opening of the Western N. C. Sanatorium at Black Mountain in 1927 and the Eastern N. C. Sanatorium at Wilson in 1942, he was made superintendent of both of these institutions. In 1935, he was elected president of the Medical Society of North Carolina, and in 1940 he was elected to head the National Tuberculosis Association.

Dr. McCain was a fellow of the American College of Physicians, a member of the Clinical and Climatological Association, the National Tuberculosis Association, the American Trudeau Society, the Southern Tuberculosis Conference, the N. C. Tuberculosis Association, and the Medical Society of the State.

In March, 1944, some 200 prominent doctors and laymen from all parts of the State gathered at Sanatorium to pay honor to Dr. McCain in recognition of his 30 years of service as medical director and superintendent of the N. C. Sanatorium. Dr. Paul Ringler of Asheville, who made the principal address, paid high tribute to Dr. McCain and described him as being the most popular and beloved doctor in North Carolina.

During the more than 30 years that Dr. McCain has spent in tuberculosis work in North Carolina, he has seen the Sanatorium facilities grow and expand steadily to accommodate an ever increasing number of patients. The sanatorium has increased in size from a small institution of 32 beds when he first arrived until now it can care for 650 patients. In addition, there are 330 more beds available at the Western N. C. Sanatorium, and 110 beds available at the Eastern N. C. Sanatorium.

Dr. McCain was married to Sadie Lou McBrayer, daughter of the late Dr. and Mrs. L. B. McBrayer, on October 17, 1917.

In addition to his many duties connected with his profession, Dr. McCain found time to take an active part in the educational, religious and civic life of his community. He was a trustee of Flora Macdonald College at Red Springs, an elder of the Presbyterian Church since 1918, and a founder of the Raeford Kiwanis Club.

Funeral Services
Funeral services were held at 3:00 p. m. Tuesday from the patients' dining room of the North Carolina State Sanatorium. Officiating ministers were the Rev. William B. Gaston of Montrose and the Rev. K. Holland of Raeford. Burial was in the family plot in Old Bethesda Cemetery.

Active pallbearers were Dr. E. D. Levy, Dr. R. S. Mitchell, Dr. R. A. Oliver, Dr. William C. Byrd, Dr. J. S. Haitt, Dr. S. M. Bittinger, Dr. C. D. Thomas, and Dr. H. F. Eason.

Members of the State Medical Association served as honorary pallbearers.

Surviving are his wife; three daughters, Dr. Irene McCain of the University of Pennsylvania, Jane Todd McCain of Agnes Scott College, Decatur, Ga., and Mrs. Hill McCollum of Leaksville; a son, John McCain of the University of North Carolina; and two brothers, Dr. James Ross McCain, president of Agnes Scott College, and Charles McCain of Birmingham, Ala.

Another son, Paul P. McCain, Jr., was killed in action with the Army Air Forces in World War II.

Science Aims To Discover TB Drug

No drug has yet been found which will cure tuberculosis in man.

Scientists have been searching for such a drug for years. They have killed the germ in a test tube and recent experiments have met with a degree of success in arresting tuberculosis in guinea pigs.

There have been a few instances where a drug has arrested the disease in man, at least temporarily. However, the limited success attained so far in treating tuberculosis patients with a drug does not warrant hope that any known drug can be relied upon to prevent the progress of the disease, according to scientists. But the search for such a drug continues.

Grants are made by the NTA from Seal Sale funds to finance well coordinated programs of scientific research.

During its three weeks of nestling life the crow eats about 10 ounces of food daily, or a total of 13 and one half pounds.
