

List Takers Delayed
In Starting Annual Job

The county list takers have been delayed in starting their January job of listing taxes on account of the delay in winding up the property revaluation. It was learned this week at the office of Miss Maida Jenkins, tax supervisor, at Carthage.

A meeting of the list takers, for final instructions, was set for Thursday of this week. Supplies were to be distributed at this meeting and the expectation was that the tax listing would start next week in all townships of the county.

The revaluation board was completing its job this week with views of several properties in Neills and Sandhills townships. The members will hold their final meeting within a week or two, it is anticipated.

The work of revaluation by the five-man board, plus secretary, started September 13 and has gone on for some 87 weeks.
