

Full Program Is Announced For AA May Meeting

Plans were released last week for the third annual state convention of Alcoholics Anonymous, which will be held here April 28-30. More than 1,500 persons are expected to attend, filling every nook and cranny of the community.

The visitors, in fact, will practically take over the town and they will find a big welcome here, even though this is one convention from which at least one local business will get no benefits—the ABC store.

Some AA groups have already registered as many as half their membership, with Sanford at present in the lead. A large proportion of the attendance will be non-members, as the meetings will be open, with AA members presiding.

Speakers at the convention will include Ruth Breen, general secretary of the Alcoholics Foundation, from AA general headquarters; and Yvelin Gardner, of the Yale foundation, associate director of the National Committee for Education on Alcoholism.

Five outstanding AA speakers will also be featured, coming from New York City, Canada, Baltimore, and Alabama. One of them, a woman, is a famed stage and night club star.

Entertainment will include songs by Norman Cordon, a showy Scott F. Hooten, professional pianist from Gordons Magic Carpet, Baltimore, and organ music by Jimmy Lawson and his Hammond organ.

Host to the convention will be the Sandhills Intergroup Association of AA, including groups at Clinton, Lumberton, Dunn, Rowland, Fayetteville, Sanford, Hamlet, Laurinburg, Wadesboro and Southern Pines.

Information about accommodations is being sent out on inquiry by the Southern Pines Chamber of Commerce.

No Decision Yet On Continuation Of Pine Needles

Hopes of the community are with Russ Birch in his endeavor to reach an agreement with Bishop Vincent E. Waters, of the Catholic diocese of Raleigh, by which he can continue operation of the Pine Needles golf course and club.

A conference between the two was inconclusive last Thursday and announcement was made later that a decision would probably be reached within a month.

Mr. Birch has been co-proprietor, with Roy Grinnell since June 1, 1948, of the golf course and club which are located on the grounds of St. Joseph of the Pines hospital.

Mr. Grinnell will leave June 1 to become pro at the Clarksville (Va.) Country club, and Mr. Birch is seeking an arrangement by which he can operate the Pine Needles profitably on a solo basis.

The golf course, designed by Donald Ross, is considered one of the country's finest, and has long been a pride of the Sandhills. The clubhouse is an attractive golfing and social center, and is headquarters of the local golf organizations, Sandpipers (men) and Pine Dodgers (women).
